SUMMARY ANALYSIS

Trespass is the unauthorized entry onto the property of another. In prosecuting trespass, the state must prove that the offender knew, or should have known, that entry onto the property is unauthorized.

The bill amends section 810.09, F.S., to increase criminal penalties for trespassing upon a domestic violence center from a first degree misdemeanor to a third degree felony.

The effective date of this bill is July 1, 2006.

It is expected that the Criminal Justice Impact Conference will determine that the bill will have an insignificant prison bed impact.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

Promote personal responsibility – This bill increases criminal penalties for trespassing upon a domestic violence center from a first degree misdemeanor to a third degree felony.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Background

According to the Florida Department of Children and Families, “domestic violence is a pattern of behaviors that adults or adolescents use against their intimate partners or former partners to establish power and control. It may include physical abuse, sexual abuse, emotional abuse, and economic abuse. It may also include threats, isolation, pet abuse, using children and a variety of other behaviors used to maintain fear, intimidation and power over one's partner. Domestic violence knows no boundaries. It occurs in intimate relationships, regardless of race, religion, culture or socioeconomic status.”¹

Domestic violence centers

In 1998, “the Legislature recognize[d] that certain persons who assault, batter, or otherwise abuse their spouses and the persons subject to such domestic violence are in need of treatment and rehabilitation. It is the intent of the Legislature to assist in the development of domestic violence centers for the victims of domestic violence and to provide a place where the parties involved may be separated until they can be properly assisted.”²

A domestic violence center is defined as an agency that provides services to victims of domestic violence, as its primary mission.³

Section 741.28, F.S., defines “domestic violence” as any assault, aggravated assault, battery, aggravated battery, sexual assault, sexual battery, stalking, aggravated stalking, kidnapping, false imprisonment, or any criminal offense resulting in physical injury or death of one family or household member by another family or household member.

Section 741.28, F.S., defines “family or household member” to mean spouses, former spouses, persons related by blood or marriage, persons who are presently residing together as if a family or who have resided together in the past as if a family, and persons who are parents of a child in common regardless of whether they have been married. With the exception of persons who have a child in common, the family or household members must be currently residing or have in the past resided together in the same single dwelling unit.

Effect of bill

Section 810.09, F.S., currently provides that it is a first degree misdemeanor to commit trespass on lands.⁴ The offense level is increased to a third degree felony in certain circumstances. For example, it is a third degree felony if the offender is armed during the trespass; if the property trespassed is a posted construction site; if the property is posted as commercial property designated for horticultural products; if the property trespassed is posted as a designated agricultural site for testing or research purposes; or if a person knowingly propels any potentially lethal projectile over or across private land without authorization while taking, killing, or endangering specified animals.⁵

⁴ Trespass in a dwelling, structure or conveyance is considered a more serious offense.

HB 761 amends section 810.09, F.S., to increase criminal penalties from a first degree misdemeanor to a third degree felony for trespassing upon a domestic violence center.⁶ In order for the felony penalties to apply, the domestic violence center must be certified under section 39.905, F.S. and must be legally posted and identified in substantially the following manner: THIS AREA IS A DESIGNATED RESTRICTED SITE AND ANYONE WHO TRESPASSES ON THIS PROPERTY COMMITS A FELONY.

C. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1. Amends section 810.09, F.S., to provide criminal penalties for trespassing on a domestic violence center.

Section 2. Provides an effective date of July 1, 2006

II. FISCAL ANALYSIS & ECONOMIC IMPACT STATEMENT

A. FISCAL IMPACT ON STATE GOVERNMENT:

1. Revenues:

None.

2. Expenditures:

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference has not met to consider the prison bed impact of this bill on the Department of Corrections. The bill creates a third degree felony offense. The offense is not ranked in the offense severity ranking chart. As such, it is expected that the conference will determine that the bill will have an insignificant prison bed impact.

B. FISCAL IMPACT ON LOCAL GOVERNMENTS:

1. Revenues:

None.

2. Expenditures:

None.

C. DIRECT ECONOMIC IMPACT ON PRIVATE SECTOR:

None.

D. FISCAL COMMENTS:

None.

III. COMMENTS

⁵ See s. 810.09(2)(a)-(g), F.S.

⁶ As a result, the maximum penalty for the offense will be increased from one year in county jail to five years in prison. See section 775.082, F.S.

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

1. Applicability of Municipality/County Mandates Provision:

The bill appears to be exempt from the requirements of Article VII, Section 18 of the Florida Constitution because it is a criminal law.

2. Other:

None.

B. RULE-MAKING AUTHORITY:

None.

C. DRAFTING ISSUES OR OTHER COMMENTS:

None.

SUMMARY ANALYSIS

PCB FFF 06-01 establishes a centralized office to examine, oversee, and implement abuse prevention services by creating the Office of Child Abuse Prevention within the Executive Office of the Governor.

Creating an Office of Child Abuse Prevention is viewed as untangling the fragmented web of services to bring a more efficient, streamlined and accessible array of services to the families of the State of Florida. That is, layers should be removed, communication networks should be developed, prevention management should increase, and accountability should be created. A centralized prevention office will lay the foundation for success in accessing prevention services for years to come.

The bill also addresses the welfare of young adults aging out of the foster care system by expanding the eligibility pool, requiring the development of a plan for each community-base care (CBC) service area, providing for the direct deposit of funds, and authorizing CBCs to purchase housing and other services.

The bill makes public school employees subject to the reporting requirements of chapter 39, F.S., for purposes of making reports of alleged abuse to the central abuse hotline.

Because of an exemption from regulation by both the Department of Children and Family Services and the Department of Education, the bill requires boarding schools to be accredited.

Finally, Statewide and Local Advocacy Councils are designated as "health oversight agencies" for purposes of providing access to certain health records.

See Fiscal Comments section of analysis for discussion of the fiscal impact of bill.

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

Provide Limited Government: The bill creates the Office of Child Abuse Prevention (Office) for the purpose of establishing a comprehensive statewide approach for the prevention of child abuse, abandonment, and neglect. The Office of Child Abuse prevention is created within the Executive Office of the Governor and the Governor shall appoint the director for the office who shall be subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Safeguard Individual Liberty: If the Statewide Advocacy Council were designated as a health oversight agency it would be entitled to obtain confidential client records without client consent.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

PRESENT SITUATION:

In 1982, the Legislature required the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services along with other state and local agencies to develop a state plan on the prevention of child abuse and neglect (chapter 82-62, Laws of Florida). The act required the plan to be submitted to the Legislature and Governor by January 1, 1983 and to be updated periodically. It was reported in 1982 that, "The impact that abuse and neglect has on the victimized child, siblings, family structure, and inevitably on all citizens of the state has caused the Legislature to determine that the prevention of child abuse and neglect shall be a priority of this state." Twenty-four years later, the Legislature is still seeking to address and identify ways to reduce incidence of abuse and neglect of children in Florida.

In 2002, Florida was among only three other states and the District of Columbia in having the highest national child maltreatment rate.¹ During the same year, 142,547 investigations of abuse or neglect, involving 254,856 children, were completed. Approximately one-half of the investigations were substantiated or indicated the presence of abuse or neglect. In FY 2003-04, there were reportedly 32.3 victims of maltreatment per 1,000 children in Florida. At that time, the re-abuse and re-neglect rate in Florida was 9.67%, which is higher than state and federal standards of 7% and 6.1%, respectively. These rates are based on maltreatment recurrence within six (6) months.

There were over 130,000 confirmed victims of child abuse and neglect in Florida in 2003. The actual incidence of child abuse and neglect is estimated to be 3 times that number.² Child deaths are the most tragic consequences of abuse and neglect. Child neglect deaths are more frequent than abuse deaths as 52% of child deaths that occur are through neglect.

A Florida child is abused or neglected every 4 minutes.³ Ten thousand Florida children are abused or neglected per month. During 2004, according to the Florida Child Abuse Death Review Team, at least 111 Florida children died from abuse or neglect at the hands of their parents or caretakers; that is a rate of about two children dying each week. They were smothered, slammed down on asphalt, beaten, shot or they drowned while unsupervised.

The cost of child maltreatment to society is tremendous. National estimates of direct and indirect impacts range from $67 to $94 billion each year and many argue that these estimates are likely to understate the true costs due to the difficulty in capturing the full range of indirect costs such as cash and food assistance.⁴ Prevention can save lives and precious resources. Despite the potential long-term benefit of preventing child abuse and neglect, only a small percentage of all resources specifically earmarked for child maltreatment in the State of Florida are actually devoted to prevention.⁵

In a study of primary prevention efforts in Florida, researchers found federal and state sources funded $1,360 per year, per child under age five, on primary prevention programs and concluded that Florida's investments in primary prevention programs for young children were at levels insufficient to significantly reduce expenditures on deep-end services. The costs of foregoing prevention include lost productivity, wasted human potential, and reduced quality of life associated with escalation of preventable conditions to chronic, debilitating, and destructive states.⁶ The challenges of funding restraints and the requirement to address the immediate, critical needs of maltreated children limit the Legislature's ability to focus on primary prevention oriented efforts. Prevention works best when there are strong connections between state and local government, prevention providers, and community organizations. In order to ensure the well being and success of Florida's children and families, prevention must become a priority for the state's citizens and leaders.

Many programs for children and families continue to focus on "fixing" problems rather than preventing them. Quick fixes are preferred, often for budgetary reasons, and prevention efforts typically require more extensive and comprehensive investments.⁷

There are some notable exceptions to this trend. The Florida Legislature created Healthy Families Florida (HFF) in July 1998 in response to the increasing number of child deaths due to child maltreatment and the increasing rates of maltreatment. Healthy Families Florida, Inc., is a nationally credentialed community-based, voluntary home visiting program designed to enable families to raise healthy, safe and nurtured children. Healthy Families Florida participants had 20 percent less child maltreatment than all families in their target service areas, showing that children in families who completed or had long-term, intensive HFF intervention experienced significantly less child maltreatment than did comparison groups with little or no service.⁸

In 1998, the Legislature appropriated $10 million to HFF to establish the state and local operating infrastructures and to fund 24 community-based programs to begin operations in targeted areas within 26 counties. In FY 1999-2000, the Legislature more than doubled the base funding to $22.2 million, which funded 36 projects serving 43 counties. In FY 2003-2004, the base funding was increased to $28.3 million to expand two projects and create one new project serving four new counties for a total of 38 projects serving parts or all of 53 of Florida's 67 counties. By FY 2003-2004, communities were contributing $9.7 million per year in local in-kind or cash contributions. The 2005-06 General Appropriations Act includes $28.4 million for the HFF program and provides a total funding of $44 million for "Child Abuse Prevention and Intervention" within the Department of Children and Families -- that represents less than 2% of the department's budget.

Healthy Families Florida is one example of a program which has had a positive impact on preventing child maltreatment for the population it serves. There are hundreds of prevention programs statewide funded with local, state, and/or federal dollars; however, due to a lack of data, it is unknown how effective many of these programs are in reducing incidence of abuse, neglect, abandonment, and death of children.

On July 15, 2005, a letter was sent to all members of the Florida House of Representatives requesting the name(s) and contact information of prevention programs within their districts that have been successful in reducing the incidence of abuse or have resulted in children and families not entering the child welfare system. Over 30 legislators responded identifying approximately 75 programs within their districts that were successful. Still, it is reported by the Department of Children and Families that these programs have produced small improvements in the level of child abuse, neglect, and abandonment, mainly because "there remain far too many children and families at risk of and suffering from maltreatment."

Recognizing the importance of reducing maltreatment and the conditions that are likely to promote abuse, the Legislature mandated that the Department of Children and Families work with an interdisciplinary task force to develop a statewide plan for child abuse prevention.⁹ This statewide plan was released in June 2005. Membership of the Florida Interprogram Task Force included the following representatives:

- Agency for Persons with Disabilities;
- Agency for Workforce Innovation;
- Community Alliances;
- Community-based Care;
- Department of Children and Families;
- Department of Education;
- Department of Health;
- Department of Juvenile Justice;
- Florida Department of Law Enforcement;
- Miccosukee Tribe;
- Prevent Child Abuse Florida; and
- Parents.

In response to these findings, the Future of Florida's Families Committee was granted authority to conduct an Interim Project to shed light on many of the problems being faced throughout the state in dealing with child maltreatment. While there are varying schools of thought on the origins of child maltreatment, most theories of child maltreatment recognize that the root causes can be organized into a framework of four principal systems: (1) the child; (2) the family; (3) the community; and (4) the society. The interim project examined many of the current prevention strategies that are operating throughout the state with the intent of outlining the prevention methods being used, the populations being served, and the outcomes and effectiveness of the current system.

Having the benefit of the background research, findings and recommendations of the Task Force, and in conjunction with an approved Interim Project, Speaker Allan Bense granted permission for the members of the Future of Florida's Families Committee to conduct a series of public hearings throughout the state with the primary objectives of:

- Bringing awareness to the impact on Florida's families of abuse, neglect, molestation, abandonment, and death of children;
- Enabling the members of the committee to dialogue with at-risk families and providers of prevention and child protective services; and
- Aiding in the development of legislation to reduce the incidence of abuse, neglect, and abandonment of children in Florida.

With the assistance of the various state agencies involved in abuse prevention efforts and state and local providers of services, the public hearings were planned and held in September and October 2005 in Jacksonville, Tampa, Miami, and West Palm Beach.

⁹ "Florida's State Plan for the Prevention of Child Abuse, Abandonment, and Neglect: July 2005 through June 2010." Developed by The Florida Interprogram Task Force, June 2005.

At the conclusion of the hearings, stakeholders were asked to provide to the members of the Future of Florida's Families Committee a broad list of Policy Options that could be discussed and evaluated for possible inclusion in a proposed committee bill. Over 26 Policy Options were received. The options were reviewed and ranked by the members of the committee and on January 11, 2006, there was a consensus to incorporate the following recommendations into a Proposed Committee Bill:

- Establish an Office of Child Abuse Prevention within the Executive Office of the Governor.
- Require that some portion of child abuse prevention funding be dedicated to the controlled longitudinal evaluation of program effectiveness.
- Continue to support, strengthen, and expand the Healthy Families Florida Program statewide so that it is available to all families that are at risk of child abuse and neglect and other poor childhood outcomes.
- Identify the Florida Statewide Advocacy Council (FSAC) and the Florida Local Advocacy Councils (FLACs) as "Medicaid Oversight" regarding the release of recipient information in abuse reports.
- Require each school district to establish written procedures for the immediate reporting of suspected or known child abuse by an individual who is employed by or otherwise contracted by a public school.
- Address the needs of young adults in foster care and young adults who age out of foster care to help prevent the occurrence of abuse and neglect of their children.

The Office of Child Abuse Prevention

The fundamental foundation for the delivery of services by the Department of Children and Families (DCF) and the other involved state agencies regarding Abuse Prevention is fragmented. The result of this fragmentation and inefficiency has created a tangled maze of services that is not only un-navigable by the providers but also the recipients of services. This maze has created inefficiency and waste as well as confusion among communities as to what services are being offered and how to access those services.

One of the findings of the committee was that long-term Abuse Prevention can save the state millions if not billions of dollars, but it is not feasible to continue to pour more money into a system in which the foundation for success is flawed. Addressing "prevention" is an issue that must have long-range goals.

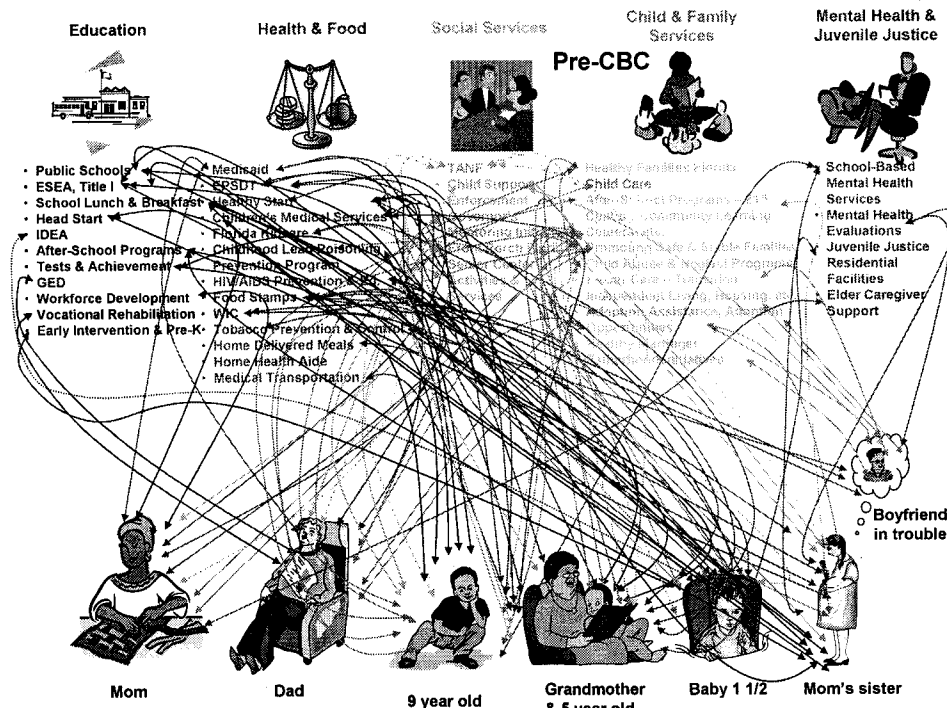

Child abuse, neglect, and abandonment cost the state millions of dollars each year, yet a centralized office to examine, oversee, and implement prevention services of abuse has yet to be put into place. Without an organized effort, it is worried that prevention will continue to fall through the cracks.

The current system is a tangled maze of services (See diagram below):

- Programs that focus on primary and secondary prevention of child abuse are offered by the Department of Children and Families (DCF) and at least six other state agencies, including the: Department of Education, Department of Health, Department of Juvenile Justice, the Agency for Persons with Disabilities, the Agency for Workforce Innovation, and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, and thousands of community organizations. This results in a tangled maze of services that providers and people trying to access the services must attempt to navigate.
- This uncoordinated system makes it unclear what services are being offered, how to access these services, duplication of services, and results in inefficiency and waste. An Office of Child Abuse Prevention would coordinate statewide prevention efforts and keep children out of the child welfare system.

- Coordination of services would improve delivery of child abuse prevention programs, decrease barriers between community providers and the families needing services, and connect private providers into a system that would result in a more efficient use of taxpayer monies.

Tangled Maze of Services

Future of Florida's Families Committee, Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect Public Hearing, Miami, Florida Commission on Marriage and Family Support Initiatives, 3 October 2005

Florida's population is growing significantly, which will increase the number of children and families in the state. The American Community Survey (ACS) has been developed by the Census Bureau to provide population estimates annually. The percent change in growth of children in the United States is a 1.51% increase over the last five years. However, the percent change in growth in children in Florida over the last five years is a 9.87% increase. Therefore, over the last five years the percent increase of children in Florida is over six times the increase in the U.S. Furthermore, the growth in children in Florida accounts for almost one third of the increased number of children in the U.S. Therefore, simply by an increase in numbers, the volume of potential cases of children and families that may enter the child welfare system should increase. This means that there will be more children and families potentially at risk or involved in child abuse and neglect than ever before in the State of Florida.

The Rationale for Prevention

- No disease or social problem has ever been brought under control by providing after-the-fact treatment to the victims of the disease or problem.
- Preventive, proactive, before-the-fact interventions have, historically, been the only effective way to control or eliminate important diseases. Public health prevention programs to control smallpox and polio are prime examples.
- Prevention interventions are not only very effective they are remarkably cost effective – often costing only a small fraction of the expense of the treatment. Hence the phrase, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Maximizing prevention opportunities may mean making difficult decisions about how organizations utilize their funding. Prevention services reduce costs in the long run and can provide families with services in a less stigmatized manner. The integration of the full range of family support services requires a re-conceptualization of the frame of mind as to which "prevention is applied." According to the Centers for Disease Control, the cost of not preventing child abuse and neglect in 2001 equaled $94 billion a year nationally. These direct costs include the utilization of the health care system, the mental health system, the child welfare system, the law enforcement, and the judicial system -- while the indirect costs include the provision of special education, mental health and health care, juvenile delinquency, lost productivity to society, and adult criminality. Therefore, prevention should be looked at as a sound investment.

What other states are doing!

Oklahoma:

In 1984, the Office of Child Abuse Prevention was created in the Oklahoma Child Abuse Prevention Act. Prior to 1984, the focus of child abuse and neglect was an "after the fact" intervention, preventing the recurrence of child abuse and neglect. The act declared that the prevention of child abuse and neglect was a priority in Oklahoma. In accordance with the Act, the Office of Child Abuse Prevention was created and placed within the Oklahoma State Department of Health to emphasize the focus of prevention. The mission of the office is to promote the health and safety of children and families by reducing family violence and child abuse, including neglect, through public health education, multidisciplinary training of professionals, and funding of community-based family resource and support programs.

California:

In 1977, the Office of Child Abuse Prevention was created in California. It has been reported by the office that having a coordinated streamlined approach to prevention has worked. The office in California has a very similar mission to the Oklahoma Office.

Early History of Independent Living

When they become 18, many young adults, a great number of whom have grown up in foster care, lose the support they received while in care. Without the support of a family, they are on their own to obtain further education and preparation for employment, as well as health care, mental health care, and housing. These young adults encounter tremendous obstacles that may put their emotional, economic, and personal security at risk.

Aftercare is defined as the period of time following discharge from foster care. It is that time when young individuals who have been preparing for self-sufficiency while in care must begin to operationalize the skills they have been working to master. Aftercare services are typically defined as a system of services and resources designed for those youth who are 16-21 years of age, in post placement who are living in an independent living arrangement. Historically, aftercare services have been difficult and challenging to provide, many times because they have been "relegated to an out-of-sight, out-of-mind status." It is now known that aftercare services should begin while the child is still in care.¹⁰

Federal funds for independent living initiatives were first made available in the United States under the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985. This act authorized funds to states to establish independent living initiatives to assist eligible youth 16 years of age and older to make the transition from foster care to independent living.¹¹ A total of 45 million dollars was authorized for the program across the nation, with state shares based on the number of children/youth in foster care. The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children, Youth and Families, issued the first set of program instructions to the states in early 1987. Each state was able to determine the nature and scope of their Independent Living Program, but guidelines from the federal government provided recommended specific program components. The recommended list included services such as GED or vocational training, daily living skills, job readiness and employability skills, and assistance obtaining higher education.

John H. Chafee Foster Care Independence Program

In a further effort to increase services and strengthen state programs for teens in foster care, Congress passed the Foster Care Independence Act of 1999, which was signed into law as the John H. Chafee Foster Care Independence Program. The Chafee Program made substantial changes in federal efforts targeted toward youth and young adults up to age 21 in the foster care component of the child welfare system. The law significantly improved the ability of states to achieve the national goals of safety, permanence and well-being for youth and young adults in the child welfare system.¹² The new federal law doubled the appropriations nationally and increased Florida's allocation substantially.

The Chafee Program legislation included provisions that:

- Required states to make services available to youth up to 21 years of age;
- Required states to serve youth younger than 16 years of age for the first time;
- Permitted states to use up to 30% of their allocation for room and board costs and services for youth ages 18-21 who leave foster care on or after 18 years of age;
- Allowed states to provide Medicaid insurance to youth 18-21 years of age who leave foster care;
- Increased the limit on youth savings accounts from $1,000 to $10,000 so that youth in foster care can save and still be eligible for Title IV-E foster care benefits;
- Required states to develop outcome measures to assess state performance;
- Required states to use Title IV-E funds to train adoptive/foster care parents, workers in group homes, and case managers to help them address issues confronting adolescents preparing for independent living; and
- Authorized additional funds for adoption incentive payments to states that increased the number of children adopted from foster care.

Education and Training Vouchers

In 2002, Title IV-E of the Social Security Act, related to the Foster Care Independent Living program, was again amended to provide for vouchers for education and training, including postsecondary training, and training for youths aging out of foster care.¹³ Conditions required for a state educational and training voucher program under this legislation include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Vouchers may be available to youths otherwise eligible for services under the state independent living program;
- Youths adopted from foster care after attaining age 16 may be considered to be youths otherwise eligible for services under the state program;

¹¹ The Independent Living Program was initially authorized by Public Law 99-272, through the addition of section 477 to Title IV-E of the Social Security Act.

¹³ See P.L. 107-133.

- States may allow youths participating in the voucher program on the date they attain 21 years of age to remain eligible until they attain 23 years of age, as long as they are enrolled in a post secondary education or training program and are making satisfactory progress toward completion of that program;
- Vouchers provided for an individual may be available for the cost of attendance at an institution of higher education¹⁴ and shall not exceed the lesser of $5,000 per year or the total cost of attendance; and
- The amount of a voucher under this section shall be disregarded for the purposes of determining the recipient's eligibility for, or the amount of, any other federal or federally supported assistance, with some exceptions.

Florida Law

With the passage of the federal law and increased available funding, the 2002 Legislature established a new framework for Florida's independent living transition services to be provided to these older youth. Specifically provided for was a continuum of independent living transition services to enable older children who are 13 to 18 years of age and in foster care and young adults who are 18 to 23 years of age who were formerly in foster care to develop the skills necessary for successful transition to adulthood and self-sufficiency. Service categories established include the following:

- Pre-independent living services which include life skills training, educational field trips and conferences for children in foster care who are 13 to 15 years of age;
- Life skills services which include independent living skills training, educational support, employment training and counseling for children in foster care who are 15 to 18 years of age; and
- Subsidized independent living services which are services provided in living arrangement that allow a child who is 16 to 18 years of age to live independently of adult supervision under certain specified circumstances.

A category of services for young adults formerly in foster care was also created to provide services, based on the availability of funds, which included aftercare support services, the Road to Independence Scholarship Program, and transitional support services. In addition, young adults who are awarded a Road to Independence Scholarship are exempt from the payment of tuition and fees for state universities, community colleges, and certain postsecondary career and technical programs and retain their Medicaid eligibility.¹⁵

The Department of Children and Family Services was directed to form an Independent Living Services Integration Workgroup for the purpose of assessing the barriers to the coordination of services and supporting the youths' transition to independent living with a report to be submitted to the Legislature by December 31, 2002.¹⁶ In 2003, the Independent Living Services Integration Workgroup was replaced with the Independent Living Services Workgroup.¹⁷ The representation on the workgroup remained the same with representatives from state agencies involved in service delivery to older foster children as well as representatives from the State Youth Advisory Board and foster parents. The charge to the workgroup was expanded to include assessing the implementation of the independent living transition services system, keeping the Department of Children and Families informed of the problems surfacing and successes experienced with the independent living transition services, and advising the department on strategies that would improve the ability of the system to meet its goals.

¹⁴ See definition in section 102 of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

¹⁵ See s. 409.1451, Florida Statutes.

¹⁶ See Chapter 2002-19, Laws of Florida.

¹⁷ See Chapter 2003-146, Laws of Florida.

The experiences of the independent living transition services program since its inception have pointed to the importance of effective and early service delivery to meet the goals of building the youths' ability to transition to independence and self-sufficiency. However, questions continue to be raised as to whether there is adequate attention being paid to preparing youth for adulthood and independent living, whether funding is sufficient to support the increasing requests for services, whether services should be more supportive of young adults not pursuing postsecondary education, and whether there is sufficient guidance and oversight being provided to the community-based care agencies that will ensure the effectiveness of the services and ensure that the goals of the program are met. As a result of continuing concerns, the Auditor General was directed to conduct an operational audit of the program and the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability (OPPAGA) was directed to develop minimum standards for the program.¹⁸ In addition, OPPAGA conducted another evaluation of the program in 2005.¹⁹

To date, it remains unclear whether any of the deficiencies identified in the reports have been corrected or whether the recommended minimum standards have been implemented.

Mandatory Reporting Public School Personnel

Florida law requires any person who knows, or has reasonable cause to suspect, that a child is abused, abandoned, or neglected by a parent, legal custodian, caregiver, or other person responsible for the child's welfare to report such knowledge or suspicion to the Department of Children and Family Services' hotline as prescribed by law.²⁰

Florida law also provides that reporters in the following occupation categories are required to provide their names to the hotline staff when reporting:

- Physician, osteopathic physician, medical examiner, chiropractic physician, nurse, or hospital personnel engaged in the admission, examination, care, or treatment of persons.
- Health or mental health professional other than one listed above.
- Practitioner who relies solely on spiritual means for healing.
- School teacher or other school official or personnel.
- Social worker, day care center worker, or other professional child care, foster care, residential, or institutional worker.
- Law enforcement officer.
- Judge.

Other Person Responsible for a Child's Welfare

The term "other person responsible for a child's welfare" is defined as:

"...the child's legal guardian, legal custodian, or foster parent; an employee of a private school, public or private child day care center, residential home, institution, facility, or agency; or any other person legally responsible for the child's welfare in a residential setting; and also includes an adult sitter or relative entrusted with a child's care. For the purpose of departmental investigative jurisdiction, this definition does not include law enforcement officers, or employees of municipal or county detention facilities or the Department of Corrections, while acting in an official capacity.”²¹

Failure to Report

Florida law provides that a person who is required to report known or suspected child abuse, abandonment, or neglect and who knowingly and willfully fails to do so, or who knowingly and willfully prevents another person from doing so, is guilty of a misdemeanor of the first degree, punishable as provided in s. 775.082 or s. 775.083.²²

Public School Personnel

Public school personnel are not currently included in the definition of “other person responsible for a child’s welfare.” They were removed from the definition in 1993.²³ By not being included in this definition or otherwise being referenced in s. 39.201, F.S., persons knowing or having reasonable cause to suspect that a child is being abused by a public school employee are not required to make a report to the central abuse hotline. Likewise, persons who have such knowledge or suspicion that abuse by a public school employee has occurred and does not report it, cannot be prosecuted for failure to report under s. 39.205, F.S. (State of Florida vs. Meyers, 9th Judicial Circuit, 2004, Case No. 03-MM-001038).

Boarding Schools

A “boarding school” is defined as:

“...a school which is registered with the Department of Education as a school. Its program must follow established school schedules, with holiday breaks and summer recesses in accordance with other public and private school programs. The children in residence must customarily return to their family homes or legal guardians during school breaks and must not be in residence year-round, except that this provision does not apply to foreign students. The parents of these children retain custody and planning and financial responsibility.”²⁴

A small military school in Fort Lauderdale, Florida closed during the summer of 2005 as a result of allegations that students were being abused. During the course of the investigation by Broward County law enforcement, it was determined that boarding schools are exempt from regulation by both the Department of Children and Family Services and the Department of Education:

- A person, family foster home, or residential child-caring agency shall not receive a child for continuing full-time care or custody unless such person, home, or agency has first procured a license from the department to provide such care.

This license requirement does not apply to boarding schools, recreation and summer camps, nursing homes, hospitals, or to persons who care for children of friends or neighbors in their homes for periods not to exceed 90 days or to persons who have received a child for adoption from a licensed child-placing agency.²⁵

- It is the intent of the Legislature not to regulate, control, approve, or accredit private educational institutions, but to create a database where current information may be obtained relative to the educational institutions in this state coming within the provisions of this section as a service to the public, to governmental agencies, and to other interested parties. It is not the intent of the Legislature to regulate, control, or monitor, expressly or implicitly, churches, their ministries, or religious instruction, freedoms, or rites. It is the intent of the Legislature that the annual submission of the database survey by a school shall not be used by that school to imply approval or accreditation by the Department of Education.²⁶

Statewide and Local Advocacy Councils

The Statewide Advocacy Council (SAC) and Local Advocacy Councils (LAC) (collectively, the "SAC") was created to serve as a volunteer network of councils that undertake to discover, monitor, and investigate the presence of conditions that constitute a threat to the rights, health, safety or welfare of persons who receive services from state agencies. The SAC is entitled to serve as an independent, third-party mechanism for protecting the constitutional and human rights of "clients" by entering into Interagency Agreements with agencies providing "client services" as defined under s. 402.164(2)(c), F.S. "Clients" are strictly limited under the statute to certain individuals receiving particular services at four state agencies: the Agency for Persons with Disabilities (APD), the Department of Children and Families (DCF), the Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA), and the Department of Elder Affairs (DOEA).

Interagency Agreements²⁷ are written to address the coordination of efforts and identify the roles and responsibilities of the SAC and each agency in fulfillment of their responsibilities, including access to records. For these agencies, the SAC may:

- (1) Monitor by site visit and through access to records the delivery and use of services, programs or facilities, in order to prevent the abuse or deprivation of rights;
- (2) Receive, investigate, and resolve reports of abuse or deprivation referred to the council; and
- (3) Review existing, new or revised programs of agencies and make recommendations based on how "clients" are affected.

Access to Records

With a few exceptions described below, s. 402.165(2), F.S., provides that the SAC may have access to all client records, files, and reports from any person, service, or facility that is operated, funded, or contracted by the agencies above. The SAC is further permitted to records that are considered "material to investigation" from agencies that do not provide "client services" to "clients;"²⁸ however, the SAC is not expressly entitled to form interagency agreements or receive records from these agencies.

The SAC's access to "client" records at "client services" agencies has been limited by the Legislature where:²⁹

- (1) Investigation or monitoring would impede or obstruct matters under investigation by law enforcement agencies or judicial authorities;
- (2) There are federal laws and regulations that supersede state laws; and
- (3) The records belong to a private licensed practitioner who is providing services outside the state agency or facility, and whose client is competent and refuses disclosure.

²⁶ See s. 1002.42(2)(h), F.S.

²⁷ Interagency Agreements are described in s. 402.165(7)(j), F.S.

²⁸ Agencies that do not provide "client services" to "clients" include the Department of Education (DOE), the Department of Health (DOH), the Department of Corrections (DOC), and the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ).

²⁹ Sections 402.165(8)(a)2. and 402.166(8)(a), F.S.

Federal Regulations that Limit SAC Access to Records

Section 402.165(8)(a)2., F.S., limits the SAC's access to information where such information is protected by superseding federal law. The Social Security Act (SSA) and the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) are examples of two such federal laws. As federal Medicaid law, the SSA makes confidential certain information such as names and addresses, medical services provided, social and economic conditions, agency evaluation of personal information, medical data, income eligibility information, etc., as provided in 42 C.F.R. 431.305. To obtain Medicaid recipient information:

- (1) Disclosure must be directly related to the administration of the state Medicaid plan.
 - Example: The SAC may request to see medical records of a foster child who receives Medicaid to determine if the child is actually receiving the medical services covered under the plan.
- (2) The recipient must give permission for the disclosure.
- (3) The disclosing entity must restrict access to persons who are subject to comparable standards of confidentiality.
 - This presents some difficulty in some cases where the SAC requests access to mass data records for volunteer members to handle on unsecured home computers.

HIPAA further prohibits disclosure of a patient's personal health information ("PHI") without the consent of the patient. There are several exceptions to these requirements. One exception is disclosure of PHI to a "health oversight agency" (HOA) performing "health oversight activities." A HOA is defined as:³⁰

"...an agency or authority of the United States, a State, a territory, a political subdivision of a State or such public agency, including employees or agents of such public agency or its contracts or persons or entities to whom it has granted authority, that is authorized by law to oversee the health care system (whether public or private) or government programs in which health information is necessary to determine eligibility or compliance, or to enforce civil rights laws for which health information is relevant."

Designation of "Health Oversight Agency"

Currently, the SAC is not a health oversight agency. According to an analysis by the Governor's General Counsel's Office, the SAC is not authorized by law to oversee Florida's health care system, or to oversee government programs in which health information is necessary to determine eligibility. The common usage of the term "oversee" and the types of activities it encompasses in HIPAA imply some authority to manage or supervise. The SAC's role is to "monitor" the delivery and use of services, programs or facilities; to make recommendations; and to receive and resolve reports of abuse. In other words, the SAC is designated to advocate, not oversee.

EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

The Office of Child Abuse Prevention

As a result of the interim project, the public hearings, and research conducted, the Future of Florida's Families Committee recommended that an Office of Child Abuse Prevention (office) be created for the purpose of establishing a comprehensive statewide approach for the prevention of child abuse, abandonment, and neglect. The Office of Child Abuse prevention is created within the Executive Office of the Governor and the Governor shall appoint the director who shall be subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Before the state can fiscally increase new prevention efforts, a centralized statewide integrated service network needs to be created – similar to the Office of Drug Control housed in the Executive Office of the Governor. The purpose of this office would be to continue to address the prevention needs of this state but also to centralize a community network throughout the state to increase communication, to more efficiently deliver services, while providing easy access to the citizens of the State of Florida to those services. By bringing together all the programs in the state it should create an environment conducive to a more “Prevention Focused” state effort to better serve the children and families of Florida.

Creating an Office of Child Abuse Prevention is viewed as untangling the fragmented web of services to bring a more efficient, streamlined and accessible array of services to the families of the State of Florida. That is, layers should be removed, communication networks should be developed, prevention management should increase, and accountability should be created. A centralized prevention office will lay the foundation for success in accessing prevention services for years to come.

The Director: The director's responsibilities include the following:

- Formulate and recommend rules pertaining to the implementation of child abuse prevention efforts.
- Act as the Governor's liaison with state agencies, other state governments, and the public and private sectors on matters that relate to child abuse prevention.
- Work to secure funding.
- Develop a strategic program and funding initiative.
- Advise the Governor on child abuse trends in the state.
- Develop child abuse prevention public awareness campaigns.

The Office: The office is authorized and directed to:

- Oversee the preparation and the implementation of a state plan and revise and update the plan as necessary.
- Conduct or provide for continuing professional education and training in the prevention of child abuse and neglect.
- Work to secure funding.
- Make recommendations pertaining to agreements or contracts towards child abuse and neglect for the establishment of programs and services, training programs, and multidisciplinary and discipline-specific training programs for professionals.
- Monitor, evaluate, and review the development and quality of local and statewide services and programs for the prevention of child abuse and neglect and distribute and publish an annual report of its findings before January 1 of each year.

The office shall develop a state plan for the prevention of child abuse, abandonment, and neglect of children. Appropriate state and local agencies and organizations shall be provided an opportunity to participate in the development of the state plan.

The office shall establish a Child Abuse Prevention Advisory Council, which will be composed of representatives from each appropriate state agency and appropriate local agencies and organizations. The Advisory Council will replace the Interprogram Task Force that is in current law and shall serve as the research arm of the office. Some of its responsibilities include:

- Assisting in developing a plan of action for better coordination and integration of the goals, activities, and funding pertaining to the prevention of child abuse.

- Assisting in providing a basic format to be utilized by districts in the preparation of local plans of action.
- Assisting in examining the local plans.
- Assisting in the preparing the state plan.
- At least biennially, the office shall review the state plan and make necessary revisions based on changing needs and program evaluation results.

Conduct a feasibility study on the establishment of a Children's Cabinet: The office shall conduct a feasibility study on the establishment of a Children's Cabinet. Several states, including Alaska, Arizona, Louisiana, Maine, New Jersey, New Mexico, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, and West Virginia have Children's Cabinets. There are number of ways they can be set up, implemented and funded. According to the National Governors Association, important factors in determining the success of a Children's Cabinet are proper planning, support, and developing a proper mission to meet the needs of the state.

District Plans: Each district of the Department of Children and Families (DCF) shall develop a plan for its specific geographical region. The plan shall be submitted to the advisory council. In order to accomplish the development of the plan, the office shall establish a task force on the prevention of child abuse, abandonment, and neglect. The office shall appoint the members of the task force.

Evaluation: By February 1, 2009, the Legislature shall evaluate the office and determine whether it should continue to be housed in the Executive Office of the Governor or transferred to a state agency.

Independent Living

The bill amends s. 409.1451, Florida Statutes, related to independent living transition services, to include a number of new provisions. Specifically, the bill:

- Makes young adults who were placed with a court-approved nonrelative or guardian after reaching age 16 and have spent a minimum of 6 months in foster care to be provided with independent living transition services;
- Requires the development of a plan by each community-based care service area to be approved and delivered to the Independent Living Services Advisory Council;
- Removes those individuals who are full time high school students or full time adult education students from eligibility for the Road to Independence Program (RTI);
- Provides for the direct deposit of RTI funds to the recipient with exceptions;
- Requires the development of a joint transition agreement and provides for access to a grievance process;
- Provides for community-based care lead agencies to purchase housing and other services in order to take advantage of economies of scale;
- Requires an annual report to the substantive committees of the Florida Senate and Florida House of Representatives related to performance measures and outcome measures; and
- Requires the Department of Children and Family Services to contract with a nonprofit entity operating within the state to coordinate and manage all independent living services.

The bill also amends s. 409.903, Florida Statutes, to require that any young adult who is eligible to receive independent living services under s. 409.1451(5), F.S., is eligible to receive Medicaid until the age of 21. The bill requires that for each child entered into the HomeSafenet system, AHCA is to transfer Medicaid data to include health care records and prescription drug information, on a daily basis, to the department and to privatized child welfare providers in a format that will allow input into an electronic record by the department and privatized child welfare providers.

Additionally, the bill amends s.1009.25, Florida Statutes, to require that certain educational fee exemptions be granted to those individuals who, after spending at least 6 months in the custody of DCF after reaching age 16, was placed in a guardianship by the court.

Public School Personnel

The bill adds public school employees back into the definition of "other person responsible for a child's welfare." This makes public school personnel subject to the reporting requirements of Chapter 39, F.S.

Boarding Schools

The bill requires boarding schools to be accredited by either the Florida Council of Independent Schools or the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. It also provides that a boarding school currently in existence or opening and seeking accreditation has three years to comply with the provisions of the bill. The bill provides sanctions for those schools not in compliance by failing to provide evidence of accreditation, documentation of an ongoing accreditation process or registration with the Department of Education.

Statewide and Local Advocacy Councils

The designation of the Statewide and Local Advocacy Councils ("SAC") as "health oversight agencies" would be a function of the Legislature, and would endow the SAC with oversight powers not currently enjoyed. If the SAC were identified as a health oversight agency, patient consent may not be required before patient health information is released to the SAC.

D. FISCAL COMMENTS:

The Department of Children and Family Services (DCF) provided the following Fiscal Comments on the Office of Child Abuse Prevention:

- The creation of this new office per the proposed bill language will require new appropriations. Three staff positions are needed to carry out the oversight, monitoring and analysis of the Prevention activities: Administration Director, Senior Management Analyst and a Administrative Assistant II. There will be a recurring budget need of $228,180 for Salaries, Expense and Human Resources; and a non-recurring budget need of $15,377 for Expense and Operating Capital Outlay. The salary numbers reflect a 10% above base minimum with a 2.5% increase for Fiscal Year 2006-07 and Fiscal Year 2007-08.

DCF provided the following Fiscal Comments on the Independent Living sections of the bill:

- The Independent Living Advisory Council recently decided to have no more than 34 members. Of that number, two are youth formerly in foster care and one or two have traditionally been foster parents. The department has covered travel costs for the foster parents and former foster youth and is currently trying to have the youth paid an honorarium because they normally are giving up time from work or school or both to attend. Other members of the council have traditionally submitted travel paperwork to their own agencies for reimbursement. The department has not been approached by the council to ask for travel expenses reimbursement for these members.

Expansion of the foster care population eligible to receive independent living transition services:

- An ad hoc report provided by the department's data staff indicates that 188 youth turned age 18 during FY04/05 who were in an unlicensed setting for at least 6 months and placed at age 16 or after. Approximately 50% of the total number of young adults exiting foster care received services from the RTI scholarship services, transitional support services, and/or aftercare support services.
- If the equivalent percentage of young adults who age out of unlicensed placements, as mentioned above, became eligible for the Road to Independence Program award, the additional participants would equal $188 \times .50 = 94$. The maximum amount of funding that each young adult could receive per year through the Road to Independence Program is \$5,000. The 94 additional participants would be potentially eligible for services until their 23rd birthday.
- Estimated costs per year to fund additional participants: 94 times $5,000 equals $470,000 x 5 years of participants (18, 19, 20, 21 and 22 year olds) not yet 23 years of age equals a total of $2,350,000 per year.

Increase in Casework Staff for Expanded Population:

- A reasonable number of casework staff would be required in order to determine eligibility for services, provide outreach, and provide case management. A 1 to 20 caseload ratio would be reasonable to provide these services for young adults. As assumed previously, an additional 94 young adults may be served with young adult services each year until age 23. Ninety-four young adults times 5 years equals 470 recipients divided by 20 = 23.5 additional staff needed. Supervisory staff will also be needed at a 6 to 1 ratio for a total of 4 additional supervisors.
- 23.5 caseworkers at $44,531 per year = $1,046,477 for Salaries. There will be a recurring budget need of $1,206,184 for Salaries, Expense and Human Resources; and a non-recurring budget need of $123,211 for expense and operating capital outlay. The salary number reflects a 10% above base minimum with a 2.5% increase for Fiscal Year 2006-07 and Fiscal Year 2007-08.
- 2 supervisors at $49,579 per year = $99,158 for salaries. There will be a recurring budget need of $225,500 for salaries, expense and human resources; and a non-recurring budget need of $20,972 for expense and operating capital outlay. The salary number reflects a 10% above base minimum with a 2.5% increase for Fiscal Year 2006-07 and Fiscal Year 2007-08.

The Agency for Health Care Administration provided the following information related to the provisions that expands Medicaid coverage for young adults aging out of foster care:

- The fiscal impact of this proposed bill includes additional funding for coverage for an estimated 2,047 Medicaid recipients age 18 through 20. The amount of funding for these additional persons would be $10,082,859 per fiscal year.

The bill also contains a $200,000 appropriation for the Independent Living Advisory Council to provide administrative support.

Public School Personnel

The Department of Children and Family Services estimates that it will cost the agency $215,404 in recurring costs for Salaries, Expense and Human Resources, and $20,972 in non-recurring costs for Expense and Operating Capital Outlay to implement this provision of the bill.

III. COMMENTS

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

1. Applicability of Municipality/County Mandates Provision:

The bill does not require counties or municipalities to spend funds or to take an action requiring the expenditure of funds. The bill does not reduce the percentage of a state tax shared with counties or municipalities. The bill does not reduce the authority that municipalities have to raise revenue.

2. Other:

None.

B. RULE-MAKING AUTHORITY:

Rulemaking authority is provided to the Executive Office of the Governor for creation of the Office of Child Abuse Prevention.

C. DRAFTING ISSUES OR OTHER COMMENTS:

The following comments were provided by the Department of Children and Family Services:

- The Florida Legislature, in 1982, in recognition of the importance of reducing maltreatment by addressing conditions that are likely to promote the prevention of abuse, mandated that the Department of Children and Families develop a statewide plan for child abuse prevention. Following the guidelines set forth in Florida statute, the Department of Children and Families established the Florida Interprogram Task Force to work at the state level and with local communities to develop a statewide plan for the prevention of child abuse, neglect and abandonment. Florida's Plan for Prevention of Child Abuse, Abandonment and Neglect: July 2005 - June 2010 was produced. Local communities also developed a local prevention of child abuse, neglect and abandonment plan.
- The Interprogram Task Force has provided technical assistance to the local planning coordinators for the development, implementation, and review of the local plans to assure implementation efforts are successful. The Interprogram Task Force provides technical assistance to the local planning coordinators, both as requested and on a monthly conference call with all state local planners.
- The Executive Committee of the Interprogram Task Force has met on a bi-monthly basis since September 2005 to assure compliance with state and local prevention plan implementation. In addition, the Task Force has seven subcommittees that meet at least monthly. The purpose of the subcommittees is to review quarterly progress reports received from the local planning teams, to provide recommendations on best practices to local planners and to assist with the development of the annual progress report to the Legislature due June 30th of each year.
- In collaboration with the Prevent Child Abuse America Florida Chapter, the Interprogram Task Force will be involved in the Prevention Month kick-off scheduled for April 4, 2006 at the State Capitol in Tallahassee. Prevent Child Abuse America Florida Chapter under contract with the Department of Children and Families provides the annual prevention campaign throughout the state. The theme this year is "Winds of Change."

- If this bill passes and creates an Office of Child Abuse Prevention within the Executive Office of the Governor, it would be replicating the responsibilities of the Department of Children and Families. A number of the proposed requirements are already being completed by the Department of Children and Families and community-based contract providers. Examples of these requirements that are already under way include:
 1. Annual reporting to the Governor, Legislatures, etc.
 2. Establishing a Child Abuse Prevention Advisory Board (this is the Interprogram Task Force).
 3. Providing statewide coordination or single state agency responsibility for oversight of these programs (the Department of Children and Families is the current agency responsible for coordination of programs).
 4. Developing a strategic program and funding initiative that links the separate jurisdictional activities of state agencies (this is planned for the future with the Executive Task Force).
 5. Developing a Child Abuse prevention public awareness campaign; this is done on a yearly basis in April (Child Abuse Prevention Month) under contract with the Ounce of Prevention.

The Office of Child Abuse Prevention may replicate efforts of the Department of Children and Families; however, the mission and purpose of the Department of Children and Family Services as stated in s. 20.19(1), F.S., is to "...work in partnership with local communities to ensure safety, well-being, and self-sufficiency of the people served, to develop a strategic plan for fulfilling its mission...to ensure that the department is accountable to the people of Florida, and to the extent allowed by law and within specific appropriations, the department shall deliver services by contract through private providers."

By having an Office of Child Abuse Prevention with its sole mission and focus towards prevention and intervention will create government efficiency:

- The current system targets all levels of child abuse: primary, secondary, and tertiary. Prevention programs are located at all levels of government and in many different state agencies. In our current system the primary focus is on "tertiary prevention," clinical services, for cases in which the child or family has experienced abuse. This is an appropriate focus because the children and their families need immediate help to deal with abuse, as is the role of the Department of Children and Family Services.
- However, the "after the fact" approach will not prevent child abuse in Florida – it may only prevent a recurrence. Primary prevention programs must not be a secondary thought if Florida wants to decrease the incidence of child abuse. In the long run, prevention reduces harm to children and increases state efficiency.

Statewide and Local Advocacy Councils (SAC)

The purpose for this section of the bill is to resolve difficulties faced by the SAC in obtaining "client" records in those cases where information may be entitled to them. It is increasingly clear that even when the SAC meets all state and federal requirements for obtaining "client" records from appropriate agencies, the SAC has been refused such records. Further, the SAC reports receiving records that have necessary information redacted from them, such as the address or name of the client for whom a report of abuse or neglect was filed. Some reasons for this include incomplete or out-of-date Interagency Agreements, or a lack of clarity on the part of both the SAC and agencies regarding what information is entitled to be shared.

Still, the SAC would need to meet other federal and state requirements before obtaining records, such as: SSA's requirement that the disclosure of information on Medicaid patients must be relevant to the administration of the state plan, and must have the consent of the recipient; and HIPAA's requirement that access to records is only permitted for persons with comparable standards of confidentiality.

The designation of the SAC as a "health oversight agency" may not get to the root of problems that the SAC currently faces. When the SAC operates through prescribed channels, it is already given statutory permission to receive all information and records necessary to carry out its functions.

It is not necessary for SAC to be designated as a health oversight agency to obtain patient health information (PHI) from AHCA, DCF, APD, or DOEA; and an agency may turn over PHI without a "client's" authorization where the disclosure is required by other state law.³¹

Thus, the problems the SAC currently faces in obtaining any or complete "client" records may not be solved by redefining it as an HOA. These problems of access may be better addressed by restating the role of the SAC, clarifying the responsibilities of "client" agencies in cooperating with SAC requests, and standardizing the process through with Interagency Agreements and requests for records are generated.

IV. AMENDMENTS/COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE & COMBINED BILL CHANGES

of Juvenile Justice, the Department of Law Enforcement, the Agency for Persons with Disabilities, and the Agency for Workforce Innovation all have programs that focus on primary and secondary prevention of child abuse and neglect, but there is no statewide coordination or single state agency responsible for oversight of these programs, and

WHEREAS, a statewide coordinated effort would result in better communication among agencies and provide for easier access and more efficiency in the delivery of abuse and neglect services in the communities, NOW, THEREFORE,

39.001 Purposes and intent; personnel standards and screening.--

(1) PURPOSES OF CHAPTER.--The purposes of this chapter are:

(a) To provide for the care, safety, and protection of children in an environment that fosters healthy social, emotional, intellectual, and physical development; to ensure secure and safe custody; ~~and~~ to promote the health and well-being of all children under the state's care; and to prevent the occurrence of child abuse, neglect, and abandonment.

145 (b) To recognize that most families desire to be competent 146 caregivers and providers for their children and that children 147 achieve their greatest potential when families are able to 148 support and nurture the growth and development of their children.
149 Therefore, the Legislature finds that policies and procedures
150 that provide for prevention and intervention through the 151 department's child protection system should be based on the 152 following principles:

153 1. The health and safety of the children served shall be of 154 paramount concern.

155 2. The prevention and intervention should engage families
156 in constructive, supportive, and nonadversarial relationships.

157 3. The prevention and intervention should intrude as little 158 as possible into the life of the family, be focused on clearly 159 defined objectives, and take the most parsimonious path to remedy
160 a family's problems.

161 4. The prevention and intervention should be based upon 162 outcome evaluation results that demonstrate success in protecting 163 children and supporting families.

164 (c) To provide a child protection system that reflects a 165 partnership between the department, other agencies, and local 166 communities.

167 (d) To provide a child protection system that is sensitive
168 to the social and cultural diversity of the state.

169 (e) To provide procedures which allow the department to 170 respond to reports of child abuse, abandonment, or neglect in the 171 most efficient and effective manner that ensures the health and 172 safety of children and the integrity of families.

173 (f) To preserve and strengthen the child's family ties
174 whenever possible, removing the child from parental custody only 175 when his or her welfare cannot be adequately safeguarded without 176 such removal.

177 (g) To ensure that the parent or legal custodian from whose 178 custody the child has been taken assists the department to the 179 fullest extent possible in locating relatives suitable to serve 180 as caregivers for the child.

181 (h) To ensure that permanent placement with the biological 182 or adoptive family is achieved as soon as possible for every 183 child in foster care and that no child remains in foster care
184 longer than 1 year.

185 (i) To secure for the child, when removal of the child from 186 his or her own family is necessary, custody, care, and discipline
187 as nearly as possible equivalent to that which should have been 188 given by the parents; and to ensure, in all cases in which a 189 child must be removed from parental custody, that the child is 190 placed in an approved relative home, licensed foster home, 191 adoptive home, or independent living program that provides the 192 most stable and potentially permanent living arrangement for the 193 child, as determined by the court. All placements shall be in a 194 safe environment where drugs and alcohol are not abused.

195 (j) To ensure that, when reunification or adoption is not 196 possible, the child will be prepared for alternative permanency
197 goals or placements, to include, but not be limited to, long-term
198 foster care, independent living, custody to a relative on a 199 permanent basis with or without legal guardianship, or custody to 200 a foster parent or legal custodian on a permanent basis with or 201 without legal guardianship.

(k) To make every possible effort, when two or more children who are in the care or under the supervision of the department are siblings, to place the siblings in the same home; and in the event of permanent placement of the siblings, to place them in the same adoptive home or, if the siblings are separated, to keep them in contact with each other.

(l) To provide judicial and other procedures to assure due process through which children, parents, and guardians and other interested parties are assured fair hearings by a respectful and respected court or other tribunal and the recognition, protection, and enforcement of their constitutional and other legal rights, while ensuring that public safety interests and the authority and dignity of the courts are adequately protected.

(m) To ensure that children under the jurisdiction of the courts are provided equal treatment with respect to goals, objectives, services, and case plans, without regard to the location of their placement. It is the further intent of the Legislature that, when children are removed from their homes, disruption to their education be minimized to the extent possible.

(n) To create and maintain an integrated prevention framework that enables local communities, state agencies, and organizations to collaborate to implement efficient and properly applied evidence-based child abuse prevention practices.

(6) LEGISLATIVE INTENT FOR THE PREVENTION OF ABUSE, ABANDONMENT, AND NEGLECT OF CHILDREN.--The incidence of known child abuse, abandonment, and neglect has increased rapidly over the past 5 years. The impact that abuse, abandonment, or neglect has on the victimized child, siblings, family structure, and

232 Legislature to determine that the prevention of child abuse,

The plan for accomplishing this end shall be included in the state plan.

5. The office, the department, the Department of Education, and the Department of Health shall work together on the enhancement or adaptation of curriculum materials to assist instructional personnel in providing instruction through a multidisciplinary approach on the identification, intervention, and prevention of child abuse, abandonment, and neglect. 1068 annually during the 90-day period before the young adult's 1069 birthday. In order to be eligible for a renewal award for the 1070 subsequent year, the young adult must:

1089 ~~k.1-~~ An award recipient who does not qualify for a renewal
1090 award or who chooses not to renew the award may subsequently 1091 apply for reinstatement. An application for reinstatement must be 1092 made before the young adult reaches 21 ~~23~~ years of age, and a

1097 l. After the completion of aftercare support services that 1098 satisfy the requirements of sub-subparagraph (a)1.h., payment of 1099 awards under the Road-to-Independence Program shall be made by 1100 direct deposit to the recipient, unless the recipient requests in 1101 writing to the community-based care lead agency or the department 1102 that:

1103 (I) The payments be made directly to the recipient by check
1104 or warrant;

1105 (II) The payments or a portion of the payments be made
1106 directly on the recipient's behalf to institutions the recipient 1107 is attending to maintain eligibility under this section; or

1108 (III) The payments be made on a two-party check to a 1109 business or landlord for a legitimate expense, whether reimbursed

1118 Independence Program to an independent entity with expertise in 1119 the delivery and management of this service. If the department 1120 determines that better service can be provided to eligible young 1121 adults through an independent entity, the department shall 1122 contract with such an entity. Cost shall not be the sole factor
 1123 in determining better service for the purposes of this sub-1124 subparagraph, nor shall it be given extra weight over any other 1125 factor. This evaluation shall be completed by December 31, 2006.

1126 (c) Transitional support services.--

1127 1. In addition to any services provided through aftercare 1128 support or the Road-to-Independence Program ~~Scholarship~~, a young 1129 adult formerly in foster care may receive other appropriate 1130 short-term funding and services, which may include financial, 1131 housing, counseling, employment, education, mental health,
 1132 disability, and other services, if the young adult demonstrates 1133 that the services are critical to the young adult's own efforts
 1134 to achieve self-sufficiency and to develop a personal support 1135 system. The department or community-based care provider shall 1136 work with the young adult in developing a joint transition 1137 agreement that is consistent with a needs assessment identifying 1138 the specific need for transitional services to support the young 1139 adult's own efforts. The young adult must have specific tasks to 1140 complete or maintain included in the agreement and be accountable
 1141 for the completion of or making progress towards the completion 1142 of these tasks. However, no task shall be forced upon a young 1143 adult and if the young adult and department or community-based 1144 care provider cannot come to agreement regarding any part of the 1145 plan, the young adult may access a grievance process to its full 1146 extent in an effort to resolve the disagreement.

1147 2. A young adult formerly in foster care is eligible to 1148 apply for transitional support services if he or she has reached 1149 18 years of age but is not yet 23 years of age, was a dependent 1150 child pursuant to chapter 39, was living in licensed foster care
1151 or in subsidized independent living at the time of his or her 1152 18th birthday, and had spent at least 6 months living in foster
1153 care before that date.

1154 3. If at any time the services are no longer critical to 1155 the young adult's own efforts to achieve self-sufficiency and to 1156 develop a personal support system, they shall be terminated.

1157 (d) Payment of aftercare, Road-to-Independence Program
1158 ~~scholarship~~, or transitional support funds.--Payment of 1159 aftercare, Road-to-Independence Program ~~scholarship~~, or 1160 transitional support funds shall be made directly to the 1161 recipient unless the recipient requests in writing to the 1162 community-based care lead agency, or the department, that the 1163 payments or a portion of the payments be made directly on the 1164 recipient's behalf in order to secure services such as housing, 1165 counseling, education, or employment training as part of the 1166 young adult's own efforts to achieve self-sufficiency. The 1167 community-based care lead agency may purchase housing,
1168 transportation, or employment services to ensure the availability 1169 and affordability of specific transitional services thereby 1170 allowing an eligible young adult to utilize these services in 1171 lieu of receiving a direct payment. Prior to purchasing such 1172 services, the community-based care lead agency must have a plan 1173 approved by the department describing the services to be 1174 purchased, the rationale for purchasing the services, and a 1175 specific range of expenses for each service that is less than the cost of purchasing the service by an individual young adult. The plan must include a description of the transition of a young adult using these services into independence and a timeframe for achievement of independence. An eligible young adult who can demonstrate an ability to obtain these services independently and prefers a direct payment shall receive such payment. The plan must be reviewed annually and evaluated for cost-efficiency and for effectiveness in assisting young adults in achieving independence, preventing homelessness among young adults, and enabling young adults to earn a livable wage in a permanent employment situation. The young adult who resides with a foster family may not be included as a child in calculating any licensing restriction on the number of children in the foster home.

(e) Appeals process.--

1. The Department of Children and Family Services shall adopt by rule a procedure by which a young adult may appeal an eligibility determination or the department's failure to provide aftercare, Road-to-Independence Program scholarship, or transitional support services, or the termination of such services, if such funds are available.

2. The procedure developed by the department must be readily available to young adults, must provide timely decisions, and must provide for an appeal to the Secretary of Children and Family Services. The decision of the secretary constitutes final agency action and is reviewable by the court as provided in s. 120.68.

(6) ACCOUNTABILITY.--The department shall maintain oversight by developing ~~develop~~ outcome measures ~~for the program~~

1209 this section as compared to the outcomes achieved by and the 1210 performance of the department.

1212 (5) (b) 5.m.

1213 (c) Rules adopted or proposed under this section since the 1214 last report. For the purposes of the first report, any rules
1215 adopted or proposed under this section must be included.

1216 (7) INDEPENDENT LIVING SERVICES ADVISORY COUNCIL.--The 1217 Secretary of Children and Family Services shall establish the 1218 Independent Living Services Advisory Council for the purpose of 1219 reviewing and making recommendations concerning the 1220 implementation and operation of the independent living transition 1221 services. This advisory council shall continue to function as 1222 specified in this subsection until the Legislature determines 1223 that the advisory council can no longer provide a valuable 1224 contribution to the department's efforts to achieve the goals of 1225 the independent living transition services.

1226 (a) Specifically, the advisory council shall assess the 1227 implementation and operation of the system of independent living
1228 transition services and advise the department on actions that 1229 would improve the ability of the independent living transition
1230 services to meet the established goals. The advisory council
1231 shall keep the department informed of problems being experienced
1232 with the services, barriers to the effective and efficient
1233 integration of services and support across systems, and successes

1234 that the system of independent living transition services has 1235 achieved. The department shall consider, but is not required to 1236 implement, the recommendations of the advisory council.

1237 (b) The advisory council shall report to the appropriate 1238 substantive committees of the Senate and the House of 1239 Representatives on the status of the implementation of the system
1240 of independent living transition services; efforts to publicize 1241 the availability of aftercare support services, the Road-to-1242 Independence ~~Scholarship~~ Program, and transitional support 1243 services; ~~specific barriers to financial aid created by the~~ 1244 ~~scholarship and possible solutions;~~ the success of the services;
1245 problems identified; recommendations for department or 1246 legislative action; and the department's implementation of the 1247 recommendations contained in the Independent Living Services 1248 Integration Workgroup Report submitted to the Senate and the 1249 House substantive committees December 31, 2002. This advisory 1250 council report shall be submitted by December 31 of each year
1251 that the council is in existence and shall be accompanied by a 1252 report from the department which identifies the recommendations
1253 of the advisory council and either describes the department's 1254 actions to implement these recommendations or provides the 1255 department's rationale for not implementing the recommendations.

1256 (c) Members of the advisory council shall be appointed by 1257 the secretary of the department. The membership of the advisory 1258 council must include, at a minimum, representatives from the 1259 headquarters and district offices of the Department of Children
1260 and Family Services, community-based care lead agencies, the 1261 Agency for Workforce Innovation, the Department of Education, the 1266 shall determine the length of the term to be served by each

1267 member appointed to the advisory council, which may not exceed 4 1268 years.

1269 (d) The advisory council shall have access to all
1270 appropriate data from the Department of Children and Family
1271 Services and the community-based care lead agencies or other 1272 relevant agencies to accomplish the tasks set forth in this 1273 section. This data shall not include any confidential information 1274 that would lead to the identity of a specific child or young 1275 adult.

1276 (8) PERSONAL PROPERTY.--Property acquired on behalf of 1277 clients of this program shall become the personal property of the 1278 clients and is not subject to the requirements of chapter 273
1279 relating to state-owned tangible personal property. Such property 1280 continues to be subject to applicable federal laws.

1281 (9) MEDICAL ASSISTANCE FOR YOUNG ADULTS FORMERLY IN FOSTER
1282 CARE.--The department shall enroll in the Florida KidCare 1283 program, outside the open enrollment period, each young adult who 1284 is eligible as described in paragraph (2)(b) and who has not yet 1285 reached his or her 19th birthday.

1286 (a) A young adult who was formerly in foster care at the 1287 time of his or her 18th birthday and who is 18 years of age but

(b) A young adult who has health insurance coverage from a third party through his or her employer or who is eligible for Medicaid is not eligible for enrollment under this subsection.

(10) RULEMAKING.--The department shall adopt by rule procedures to administer this section, including balancing the goals of normalcy and safety for the youth and providing the caregivers with as much flexibility as possible to enable the youth to participate in normal life experiences. The department shall not adopt rules relating to reductions in ~~scholarship~~ awards. The department shall engage in appropriate planning to prevent, to the extent possible, a reduction in ~~scholarship~~ awards after issuance. The department shall not establish, by rule or practice, a limit on the amount of aftercare or transitional support services funding an eligible young adult may receive. This amount shall be determined based on the specific needs of the young adult and the availability of funds.

(11) CONTRACTS FOR SERVICES.--The department shall contract with a qualified nonprofit entity, legally operating within the state, to coordinate and manage all services described in this section and to manage all funds available to provide those services and related support services, including case management, administrative, and out-of-home care funds for children and young adults eligible for these services when they reach 16 years of age until they reach 23 years of age or are otherwise no longer eligible.  1322 entity shall contract with community-based care lead agencies to 1323 provide the services or with local community provider agencies 1324 that have specific skills and experience with providing 1325 transitional support services to children and young adults and 1326 with which the lead agency has collaborated.

1327 (12) AWARD OF FUNDING.--The total amount of the funds
 1328 awarded directly to an eligible young adult under paragraph 1329 (5)(b) shall be based upon the living and educational needs of 1330 the young adult and may equal, but not exceed, the amount of 1331 earnings that the young adult would have been eligible to earn 1332 working a 40-hour-a-week federal minimum wage job, excluding any 1333 funds provided for immediate need or emergency services as one-1334 time payments.

1335 Section 8. Paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of section

 1355 currently in existence and a boarding school opening and seeking 1356 accreditation has 3 years to comply with the requirements of this 1463 under the supervision of the department, the agency shall make 1464 available all health care records, including behavioral health

1465 care records and all prescription drugs prescribed for the child 1466 on a continuous and daily basis. The agency shall make these 1467 records available in an electronic format to allow the department 1468 and the community-based care lead agencies to create an 1469 electronic health record or electronic medical passport for each
1470 child in the database of his or her choice and have it refreshed
1471 at least every 24 hours. The agency is not required to make this 1472 information available in multiple formats, but only in a format
1473 the department and the community-based care lead agencies can use 1474 for the purpose of creating the electronic medical passport.

1475 Section 10. Subsection (2) of section 39.013, Florida
1476 Statutes, is amended to read:

1477 39.013 Procedures and jurisdiction; right to counsel.--

1478 (2) The circuit court shall have exclusive original
1479 jurisdiction of all proceedings under this chapter, of a child
1480 voluntarily placed with a licensed child-caring agency, a 1481 licensed child-placing agency, or the department, and of the 1482 adoption of children whose parental rights have been terminated 1483 under this chapter. Jurisdiction attaches when the initial 1484 shelter petition, dependency petition, or termination of parental 1485 rights petition is filed or when a child is taken into the 1486 custody of the department. The circuit court may assume 1487 jurisdiction over any such proceeding regardless of whether the 1488 child was in the physical custody of both parents, was in the 1489 sole legal or physical custody of only one parent, caregiver, or 1490 some other person, or was in the physical or legal custody of no

1492 child to the attention of the court. When the court obtains 1493 jurisdiction of any child who has been found to be dependent, the 1494 court shall retain jurisdiction, unless relinquished by its 1495 order, until the child reaches 18 years of age. However, if a 1496 youth petitions the court at any time before his or her 19th 1497 birthday requesting the court's continued jurisdiction, the 1498 juvenile court may retain jurisdiction under this chapter for a
1499 period not to exceed 1 year following the youth's 18th birthday
1500 for the purpose of determining whether appropriate aftercare
1501 support, Road-to-Independence Program ~~Scholarship~~, transitional 1502 support, mental health, and developmental disability services, to 1503 the extent otherwise authorized by law, have been provided to the 1504 formerly dependent child who was in the legal custody of the 1505 department immediately before his or her 18th birthday. If a 1506 petition for special immigrant juvenile status and an application
1507 for adjustment of status have been filed on behalf of a foster 1508 child and the petition and application have not been granted by 1509 the time the child reaches 18 years of age, the court may retain 1510 jurisdiction over the dependency case solely for the purpose of 1511 allowing the continued consideration of the petition and 1512 application by federal authorities. Review hearings for the child 1513 shall be set solely for the purpose of determining the status of 1514 the petition and application. The court's jurisdiction terminates 1515 upon the final decision of the federal authorities. Retention of 1516 jurisdiction in this instance does not affect the services
1517 available to a young adult under s. 409.1451. The court may not 1518 retain jurisdiction of the case after the immigrant child's 22nd
1519 birthday.

In addition to any information or report provided to the court, the department shall include in its judicial review social study report written verification that the child:

SUMMARY ANALYSIS

The bill amends ss. 61.13 and 61.14, Florida Statutes, to provide for the reduction and termination of a child support order as children named in the order reach the age of majority or otherwise become emancipated and to provide for temporary modification of an order under certain specified circumstances.

The bill amends s. 61.30, Florida Statutes, relating to child support guidelines. Provisions of the bill include:

- New language that reflects Florida's use of the income shares model as the basis for its child support guidelines schedule and state the purposes of the guidelines;
- Simplification of the concept of rebuttable presumption and clarification of when the court must provide a written finding when deviating from the guideline amount of an award;
- New provisions relating to the imputation of income for purposes of determining the amount of a child support award;
- Clarification that child care costs and health care costs are not built into the guideline schedule and are expenses that are added on to the basic child support obligation;
- Elimination of an automatic reduction in child care costs related to the 25% federal child care credit;
- Elimination of the 40% threshold in shared parenting time for a setoff in the amount of a child support award;
- A formula for determining the amount of a child support award reflective of all levels of shared parenting time that results in a gradual adjustment rather than the current "cliff effect";
- An explanation of the term "split parenting arrangement" and direction for calculating child support awards when those arrangements exist; and
- The transfer of responsibility for the implementation and review of the child support guidelines from the Legislature to the court.

The bill amends s. 409.2564, Florida Statutes, relating to actions for support, to reduce the arrearage threshold for denial of a passport.

The bill also amends s. 409.25641, Florida Statutes, relating to automated administrative enforcement in interstate cases, to provide states with the option of establishing a corresponding case based on another state's administrative enforcement of an interstate case request.

There is no anticipated fiscal impact on either state or local government.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

Provide limited government – The bill moves responsibility for the review and implementation of the child support guidelines from the Legislature to the court.

Promote personal responsibility – The bill lowers the threshold for the amount of arrearage owed by a child support obligor for purposes of passport denial.

Empower families – If child support award amounts better reflect shared parenting arrangements, collections may increase and noncustodial parents may spend more time with their children.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Background

In 1984, Congress recognized potential value in requiring states to implement guidelines to be used in the determination of the amount of the child support obligation. The federal Child Support Amendments of 1984 required states to establish non-binding child support guidelines either by law, or judicial or administrative action no later than October 1, 1987.¹ The Family Support Act of 1988 made state child support guidelines presumptive and required states to review their child support guidelines at least once every four years in order to ensure that their application results in child support award amounts that are appropriate. As a part of the review process, states must analyze case data related to the application of, and deviations from, the guidelines and they must also consider economic data related to the cost of raising children.² With the exception of these two requirements, states have broad discretion and latitude in conducting guideline reviews.

In requiring the adoption and use of presumptive guidelines, the federal government had four primary objectives:

- to enhance the adequacy of child support orders;
- to improve the equity of orders by assuring more comparable treatment for cases with similar circumstances;
- to increase compliance as a result of the perceived fairness of child support awards; and
- to improve the efficiency of adjudicating child support orders.

The Florida House of Representatives has traditionally taken the lead in completing the reviews to meet the federal mandate. In spite of timely guideline reviews and some statutory changes, the Florida Legislature has not adjusted the guidelines schedule since 1993. Since the underlying data for the current schedule enacted in 1993 is the 1972-1973 Consumer Expenditure Survey, the schedule is considerably out of date. In addition, other provisions of the guidelines may no longer adequately reflect the needs and circumstances of Florida families.

In preparation for the current review, the Legislature allocated funds for an economic review of the state's child support guidelines.³ In February 2003, the Legislature contracted with the Department of Economics at Florida State University. The analysis undertaken by the researchers consisted of three tasks:

³ See SB 2000 (2001) and HB 27E (2002).

- To update the existing Florida schedule of child support obligations based on the most recent data available on expenditures on children;
- To review three special issues relating to child support guidelines and to make recommendations for changes in Florida's treatment of these issues. The three issues are the treatment of low-income parents, provisions for visitation and alternative custody arrangements, and the treatment of prior and subsequent children; and
- To review alternative models for the development of child support guidelines and possibly recommend a different model for use in Florida.

In addition, two issues that were not a part of the original scope of work but were addressed in the report: the treatment in the guidelines of the tax benefits associated with children, and the treatment of child care related expenses.⁴

The final report was delivered to the Legislature in March 2004 and presentations were made on findings and recommendations to the Future of Florida's Families Committee during the 2004 and 2005 legislative sessions. Work continued during the interims in preparation for the development of proposed legislation for possible introduction during the 2006 legislative session. Findings in the report centered around three major issues: the support schedule, the treatment of low income obligors, and the treatment of various parental sharing arrangements.

- Updating Florida's Child Support Guidelines Schedule

Florida's current schedule of child support guidelines is based on the income shares model. The income shares model determines the amount of child support obligations from estimated average expenditures on children in an intact family as a function of the combined income of the parents. The model was developed by Robert Williams from an analysis of expenditures on children by Thomas Espenshade.⁵ Espenshade based his analysis on Ernst Engel's⁶ approach to comparing living standards among families.

In the schedule proposed in the FSU report, the basic support obligations are lower at most income levels than those in the current schedule, with differences being relatively small except at the higher income levels. However, the amounts in the proposed guidelines are greater than those in the existing guidelines for families with low incomes and multiple children.

Using a representative sample of Florida child support cases, it was determined that for approximately 60% of the Title IV-D cases in the sample the average child support payment changes very little from the current schedule. Only for the 20% of cases in the IV-D sample with the highest incomes would the average payment change substantially. Similarly, in 40% of the private cases there is almost no change in the average child support payment. For the top 20% the average payment decreases substantially, and the average payment for the middle 40% decreases slightly. Applying the proposed schedule of basic child support obligations to the actual distribution of the child support cases in Florida indicates that the effect of the proposed schedule would be minimal for most cases. Only the top 20% of cases ranked by income would see a significant change in the amount of child support payments. In those cases, payments would decrease substantially.

⁴ See Updating Florida's Schedule of Child Support Obligations, Final Report to the Florida Legislature, Department of Economics, Florida State University, March 5, 2004.

⁵ See Espenshade, T. J. (1973). The Cost of Children in Urban United States. Westport, Connecticut: Greenwood Press and Espenshade, T. J. (1984). Investing in Children: New Estimates of Parental Expenditures. Washington, D.C.: The Urban Institute Press.

⁶ The underlying assumption of the Engel approach is that families of a different size that spend equal proportions of their incomes on food are equally well-off. The Engel approach assumes that as total spending increases, the budget share or percent devoted to food should decrease, freeing up expenditures for other goods, and that as family size increases, the food share of the budget should also increase.

- Low-Income Parents

Child support obligations that are derived from the income shares methodology typically include an adjustment for low-income parents to ensure that parents owing child support are not living in poverty due to the obligation to provide support. The low-income adjustment in Florida's current guidelines applies to only about one percent of cases and is therefore ineffective at preventing or mitigating poverty among low-income parents. This ineffectiveness is primarily a result of four features of the current guidelines:

- The use of combined income of both parents with the single person poverty threshold;
- The application of the low-income provisions to the basic obligation rather than to the total obligation;
- The failure to update the child support schedule on a regular basis to reflect increases in the poverty guideline; and
- The imputation of income.

In addition, Florida's current schedule of child support obligations is regressive, which penalizes noncustodial parents who earn additional income and therefore serves as a disincentive to work. By imposing a very high marginal rate on additional earnings, it also discourages compliance. In fact, the compliance rate among low-income noncustodial parents is very low, which in turn presents a barrier to the involvement of the noncustodial parent with the children.

- Visitation and Custody

Florida law currently provides that in shared parenting arrangements where a child spends less than 40 percent of overnights per year with the noncustodial parent, the court may use that arrangement as grounds for an adjustment in the amount of the child support obligation. A shared parenting arrangement where the number of overnights spent with the noncustodial parent exceeds 40 percent requires the court to adjust the noncustodial parent's support obligation to reflect the additional costs of maintaining two households for the child.

Failure to provide any adjustment where time spent with the noncustodial parent does not equal or exceed 40 percent may act as a disincentive for regular visitation with the noncustodial parent. Further, setting a threshold results in very large changes in the noncustodial parent's child support obligation in response to very small changes in the amount of visitation. For this reason, the existence of a threshold can be a source of excessive dispute and litigation between parents.

Currently, Florida's child support guidelines are silent regarding split custody arrangements. As a result, determination of the amount of the basic support obligation in such cases is left to the discretion of the courts without any statutory guidance on dealing with this type of living arrangement. This gives rise to disparate treatment of these cases in different judicial districts, and can also be a source of dispute and litigation over living arrangements. Failure to provide explicitly for split custody may discourage parents from adopting this arrangement even when it is in the best interests of the child.

The Bill

With regard to the three major sets of findings resulting from the FSU study, the bill retains the existing child support guidelines schedule, it continues the current treatment of low income families, it eliminates the 40% threshold for shared parenting arrangements by providing for a continuous adjustment to child support award amounts, and it defines split shared parenting arrangements and provides direction for calculating the amount of an award in such circumstances. The bill also contains the following provisions related to child support guidelines and orders:

- New language that reflects Florida's use of the income shares model as the basis for its child support guidelines schedule and states the purposes of the guidelines schedule;

- Simplification of the concept of rebuttable presumption and clarification of when the court must have a written finding when deviating from the guideline amount of an award;
- New provisions relating to the imputation of income for purposes of determining the amount of a child support award;
- Clarification that child care costs and health care costs are not built into the guideline schedule and are expenses that are added on to the basic child support obligation;
- Elimination of an automatic reduction in child care costs related to the 25% federal child care credit; and
- Direction for transferring responsibility for the implementation and review of the child support guidelines from the legislature to the court.

In addition, the bill contains two provisions related to the enforcement of child support orders:

- Reduction of the arrearage threshold for denial of a passport; and
- Giving states the option of establishing a corresponding case based on another state's administrative enforcement of an interstate case request.

89 support obligation and entering a new income deduction order to 90 reflect the appropriate amount of support for the remaining minor 91 children, based upon the most recently entered support order. The 92 court shall send a copy of such orders to the obligor, obligee,
93 and child support enforcement agency. The court order terminating
94 or modifying child support deductions and the new income
95 deduction order shall be provided by certified mail, return
96 receipt requested, by the obligee to the obligor's employer
97 instructing the employer to either cease deducting the child
98 support or to modify the amount deducted from the obligor's
99 income based on the new income deduction order.

100 2. The court initially entering an order requiring one or 101 both parents to make child support payments shall have continuing 102 jurisdiction after the entry of the initial order to modify the 103 amount and terms and conditions of the child support payments
104 when the modification is found necessary by the court in the best 105 interests of the child, when the child reaches majority, or when 106 there is a substantial change in the circumstances of the 107 parties, notwithstanding the automatic termination set forth in 108 subparagraph 1. If the child support obligation does not 109 automatically terminate as set forth in subparagraph 1. and the 110 obligor is forced to file an action to terminate support for a 111 child no longer entitled to receive support, the termination
112 shall be retroactive to the date the child was no longer eligible 113 to receive support, regardless of when the action is filed. If 114 the obligee receives support for a child who is no longer
115 eligible to receive support, the obligee is required to reimburse 116 the obligor the amount of the overpayment, which may be ordered to be paid in one lump sum or in installments over a period of time, at the discretion of the court based on the financial circumstances of the party who is responsible for the repayment.

3. The court initially entering a child support order shall also have continuing jurisdiction to require the obligee to report to the court on terms prescribed by the court regarding the disposition of the child support payments.

(c) To the extent necessary to protect an award of child support, the court may order either or both parents who owe a duty of support to a child ~~the obligor~~ to purchase or maintain a life insurance policy or a bond, or to otherwise secure the child support award with any other assets which may be suitable for that purpose.

Section 2. Paragraph (a) of subsection (1) and paragraph (b) of subsection (11) of section 61.14, Florida Statutes, are amended to read:

61.14 Enforcement and modification of support, maintenance, or alimony agreements or orders.--

(1)(a)1. When the parties enter into an agreement for payments for, or instead of, support, maintenance, or alimony, whether in connection with a proceeding for dissolution or separate maintenance or with any voluntary property settlement, or when a party is required by court order to make any payments, and the circumstances or the financial ability of either party changes or the child who is a beneficiary of an agreement or court order as described herein reaches majority after the execution of the agreement or the rendition of the order, either party may apply to the circuit court of the circuit in which the parties, or either of them, resided at the date of the execution

146 of the agreement or reside at the date of the application, or in 147 which the agreement was executed or in which the order was 148 rendered, by filing a supplemental petition for an order
149 decreasing or increasing the amount of support, maintenance, or 150 alimony, and the court has jurisdiction to make orders as equity 151 requires, with due regard to the changed circumstances or the 152 financial ability of the parties or the child, decreasing,
153 increasing, or confirming the amount of separate support,
154 maintenance, or alimony provided for in the agreement or order.

155 2. A finding that medical insurance is reasonably available
156 or the child support guidelines in s. 61.30 may constitute 157 changed circumstances.

158 3.a. When the involuntary change of circumstances or 159 financial ability has not yet been established as being permanent 160 in nature, or when the change in circumstances is readily
161 acknowledged as only temporary in nature, a party may file a 162 motion for temporary relief, as opposed to a supplemental 163 petition for modification as provided in subparagraph 1. This 164 motion must be served in the same manner as a supplemental 165 petition. In response to the motion, the court may grant, as 166 appropriate, the following forms of temporary relief:

167 (I) A temporary reduction, abatement, or suspension of 168 child support, with the option to enforce payment of the accrued 169 shortfall, if appropriate, between the regular child support and 170 the temporary obligation;

171 (II) An abatement or suspension of contempt or enforcement
172 proceedings; or

173 (III) Such other temporary relief that the court deems just 174 and proper.

b. As a condition of entitlement to temporary relief under this subparagraph, the movant must demonstrate that he or she:

(I) Has not precipitated the change of circumstances or financial ability to avoid meeting the existing court-ordered child support obligation.

(II) Is trying diligently to attain his or her previous income level.

c. If a subsequent modification action is filed, the court may modify an order of child support retroactively to the date of the filing of the motion.

4. Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph 3. and s. 61.30(11)(d)(e), the court may modify an order of support, maintenance, or alimony by increasing or decreasing the support, maintenance, or alimony retroactively to the date of the filing of the action or supplemental action for modification as equity requires, giving due regard to the changed circumstances or the financial ability of the parties or the child.

(b) The modification of the temporary support order may be retroactive to the date of the initial entry of the temporary support order; to the date of filing of the initial petition for dissolution of marriage, initial petition for support, initial petition determining paternity, or supplemental petition for modification; or to a date prescribed in paragraph (1)(a) or s. 61.30(11)(d)(e) or (18)(17), as applicable.

Section 3. Section 61.30, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

61.30 Child support guidelines; guidelines schedule; retroactive child support.--

(1) INCOME SHARES MODEL.--

(a) The state child support guidelines are based on the income shares model, which presumes that a child should receive the same proportion of parental income as he or she would have received if the parents lived together.

(b) The Legislature finds that child support is a continuous obligation of both parents, children are entitled to share in the current income of both parents, and a child's standard of living should not, to the degree possible, be negatively affected because a child's parents are not living together in the same household. The Legislature finds that children of families living in two households should be afforded the same opportunities that are available to children in families living in one household with parents who have financial resources similar to the resources of the parents who are living in two households.

(c) The Legislature finds that child support shall provide for the needs of the child. The needs of the child include, but are not limited to, direct expenses for food, clothing, school, and entertainment. The Legislature finds that child support shall also be used to provide for housing, utilities, transportation, and other indirect expenses related to the day-to-day care and well-being of the child.

(d) The Legislature further finds that in intact families the income of both parents is combined and spent for the benefit of all household members, including the children. The amount each parent contributes to the total income of the family represents his or her relative share of household expenses. This same income sharing principle is used by the income shares model to determine

Redraft - A

2006

233 how parents will share a child support award. The child support
234 guidelines schedule as provided in subsection (6) calculates a 235 child support award as the estimated share of each parent's 236 income that would have been spent on the child if the parents and 237 child were living in the same household. The amount calculated to 238 be spent by the custodial parent on child-rearing expenses is 239 retained by the custodial parent and is to be spent directly for 240 the benefit of the child. The amount calculated to be spent by 241 the noncustodial parent on child-rearing expenses represents the 242 amount of support that is paid to the custodial parent for the 243 benefit of the child. The amount of a child support award shall 244 be determined without regard to the gender of the custodial 245 parent.

246 (2) PURPOSES OF CHILD SUPPORT GUIDELINES.--The primary 247 purposes of the child support guidelines are:

248 (a) To provide uniform procedures for establishing an 249 adequate level of support for children, subject to the parents'
250 ability to pay.

251 (b) To make child support awards more equitable by ensuring 252 the consistent treatment of persons in similar circumstances.

253 (c) To reduce the adversarial nature of child support
254 proceedings by increasing voluntary settlements due to greater 255 predictability in the process to determine the amount of a child 256 support award.

257 (d) To increase the level of compliance with child support 258 orders as a result of the perceived fairness of the amounts of 259 child support ordered to be paid.

260 (e) To improve the efficiency of the judicial process by 261 giving courts, the child support enforcement agency, attorneys,

PCB FFF 06-02

Redraft - A

2006 and parents guidance in determining the amount of child support awards.

(f) To comply with federal law.

(3) REBUTTABLE PRESUMPTION.--

(a) There shall be a rebuttable presumption in any judicial or administrative proceeding to establish a temporary or permanent order for child support, to decide whether to approve a settlement agreement for child support, or to consider requests for modifications of existing orders that the amount of child support that would result from the application of the guidelines schedule provided in subsection (6) is the correct amount of child support to be awarded. The presumption may be rebutted and the minimum child support award, or either or both parents' share of the minimum child support award, may be adjusted upward or downward upon evidence that the application of the guidelines schedule would be unjust or inappropriate in a particular case.

~~(b)(1)(a) A~~ The child support guideline amount as determined by this section presumptively establishes the amount the trier of fact shall order as child support in an initial proceeding for such support or in a proceeding for modification of an existing order for such support, whether the proceeding arises under this or another chapter. The trier of fact may order payment of child support award which varies, plus or minus 5 percent, from the guideline amount may be ordered without a written finding, after considering all relevant factors, including the needs of the child or children, age, station in life, standard of living, and the financial status and ability of each parent. ~~A~~ The trier of fact may order payment of child support award in an amount which varies more than 5 percent from

Redraft - A

2006

291 the such guideline amount may be ordered only upon a written 292 finding explaining why ordering payment of the such guideline
293 amount would be unjust or inappropriate. In determining whether 294 the application of the guidelines schedule would be unjust or 295 inappropriate and in determining whether to vary from the 296 presumptive child support amount in a particular case, the court
297 shall consider all of the factors provided in subsection (10)
298 ~~Notwithstanding the variance limitations of this section, the~~ 299 ~~trier of fact shall order payment of child support which varies~~
300 ~~from the guideline amount as provided in paragraph (11)(b)~~
301 ~~whenever any of the children are required by court order or~~ 302 ~~mediation agreement to spend a substantial amount of time with~~ 303 ~~the primary and secondary residential parents. This requirement~~
304 ~~applies to any living arrangement, whether temporary or~~ 305 ~~permanent.~~

306 ~~(b) The guidelines may provide the basis for proving a~~ 307 ~~substantial change in circumstances upon which a modification of~~ 308 ~~an existing order may be granted. However, the difference between~~ 309 ~~the existing monthly obligation and the amount provided for under~~ 310 ~~the guidelines shall be at least 15 percent or $50, whichever~~
311 ~~amount is greater, before the court may find that the guidelines~~
312 ~~provide a substantial change in circumstances.~~

313 ~~(c) For each support order reviewed by the department as~~ 314 ~~required by s. 409.2564(11), if the amount of the child support~~
315 ~~award under the order differs by at least 10 percent but not less~~
316 ~~than $25 from the amount that would be awarded under s. 61.30,~~
317 ~~the department shall seek to have the order modified and any~~ 318 ~~modification shall be made without a requirement for proof or~~ 319 ~~showing of a change in circumstances.~~

320 ~~(4)(2)~~ DETERMINATION OF GROSS INCOME.--Income shall be 321 determined on a monthly basis for each parent. ~~the obligor and~~ 322 ~~for the obligee as follows:~~

323 (a) Gross income shall include, but is not limited to, the 324 following ~~items~~:

- 325 1. Salary or wages.
- 326 2. Bonuses, commissions, allowances, overtime, tips, and 327 other similar payments.
- 328 3. Business income from sources such as self-employment, 329 partnership, close corporations, and independent contracts.
- 330 "Business income" means gross receipts minus ordinary and 331 necessary expenses required to produce income.
- 332 4. Disability benefits.
- 333 5. All workers' compensation benefits and settlements.
- 334 6. Unemployment compensation.
- 335 7. Pension, retirement, or annuity payments.
- 336 8. Social security benefits.
- 337 9. Spousal support received from a previous marriage or 338 court ordered in the marriage before the court.
- 339 10. Interest and dividends.
- 340 11. Rental income, which is gross receipts minus ordinary 341 and necessary expenses required to produce the income.
- 342 12. Income from royalties, trusts, or estates.
- 343 13. Reimbursed expenses or in kind payments to the extent 344 that they reduce living expenses.
- 345 14. Gains derived from dealings in property, unless the 346 gain is nonrecurring.
- 347 (b)1. Income on a monthly basis shall be imputed to an 348 unemployed or underemployed parent when such employment or

PCB FFF 06-02

2006

underemployment is found by the court to be voluntary on that parent's part, absent a finding of fact by the court of physical or mental incapacity or other circumstances over which the parent has no control. In the event of such voluntary unemployment or underemployment, the employment potential and probable earnings level of the parent shall be determined based upon his or her recent work history, occupational qualifications, and prevailing earnings level in the community as provided in this paragraph; however, the court may refuse to impute income to a primary residential parent if the court finds it necessary for the parent to stay home with the child who is the subject of the child support calculation to care for that child.

2. In order for the court to impute income under subparagraph 1., the court must make specific findings of fact consistent with the requirements of this paragraph. The party seeking to impute income has the burden to present competent, substantial evidence:

- a. That the unemployment or underemployment is voluntary.
- b. That identifies the amount and source of the imputed income, including, but not limited to, an identification of a job for which the party is suitably qualified by education, experience, current licensure, and geographic location, with due consideration being given to the parties' current existing parental responsibility and time-sharing plan and their historical compliance with the plan.

3. A rebuttable presumption shall exist, which entitles the court to impute Florida minimum wage to a parent if no other evidentiary basis or mechanism for establishing a parent's gross income is available, absent a finding by the court that:

PCB FFF 06-02

Redraft - A

2006

a. The parent has a physical or mental incapacity that renders the parent unemployable or underemployed;

b. The parent is obliged to stay home with a child who is the subject of the child support calculation proceedings and care for that child, thereby preventing the parent's employment or rendering the parent underemployed; or

c. There are other circumstances over which the parent has no control, except for penal incarceration, which prevents the parent from earning an income.

If evidence is produced that demonstrates that the parent is a resident of another state, the state minimum wage applicable to the parent's state of residence shall apply if it is greater than the Florida minimum wage. In the absence of a state minimum wage or if the other state's minimum wage is lower than the Florida minimum wage, the federal minimum wage shall apply.

4. Income may not be imputed beyond minimum wage requirements in subparagraph 3. based upon:

a. Income records that are more than 5 years old at the time of the hearing or trial at which imputation is sought.

b. Income at a level that a party has not previously ever earned in the past, unless recently degreed, licensed, certified, relicensed, or recertified and thus qualified for, subject to geographic location, with due consideration being given to the parties' current existing parental responsibility and time-sharing plan and their historical compliance with the plan.

(c) Public assistance as defined in s. 409.2554 shall be excluded from gross income.

Redraft - A

2006

(d) If recurring income is not sufficient to meet the needs of the child, the court may order child support to be paid from nonrecurring income or assets.

(5)(3) DETERMINATION OF NET INCOME.--

(a) Net income is obtained by subtracting allowable deductions from gross income. Allowable deductions shall include:

1.~~(a)~~ Federal, state, and local income tax deductions, adjusted for actual filing status and allowable dependents and income tax liabilities.

2.~~(b)~~ Federal insurance contributions or self-employment tax.

3.~~(c)~~ Mandatory union dues.

4.~~(d)~~ Mandatory retirement payments.

5.~~(e)~~ Health insurance payments, excluding payments for coverage of the minor child.

6.~~(f)~~ Court-ordered support for other children which is actually paid.

7.~~(g)~~ Spousal support paid pursuant to a court order from a previous marriage or the marriage before the court.

~~(b)(4) Net income for each parent the obligor and net income for the obligee shall be computed by subtracting allowable deductions from gross income.~~

~~(c)(5) Net income for each parent the obligor and net income for the obligee shall be added together for a combined net income.~~

(6) CHILD SUPPORT GUIDELINES SCHEDULE.--The following schedule ~~schedules~~ shall be applied to the combined net income to determine the minimum child support amount ~~need~~:

(7) LOW-INCOME PARENTS.--For combined monthly available income less than the amount set out in the schedule provided in subsection (6) ~~on the above schedules~~, the parent should be ordered to pay a child support amount, determined on a case-by-case basis, to establish the principle of payment and lay the basis for increased orders should the parent's income increase in the future.

(8) HIGH-INCOME PARENTS.--For combined monthly available income greater than the amount set out in the schedule provided in subsection (6) ~~above schedules~~, the obligation shall be the minimum amount of support provided by the guidelines schedule plus the following percentages multiplied by the amount of income over $10,000:

Child or Children

One	Two	Three	Four	Five	Six
5.0%	7.5%	9.5%	11.0%	12.0%	12.5%

(9) EXPENSES TO BE ADDED.--Some expenditures related to raising children represent either large expenses or expenses that may vary greatly from child to child and, for that reason, are not built into the child support guidelines schedule. However, these types of expenditures are typically incurred by most children involved in child support proceedings and shall be considered expenditures that are to be added to the basic child support obligation, as follows:

(a)(7) Child care costs incurred on behalf of the children due to employment, job search, or education calculated to result in employment or to enhance income of current employment of either parent shall be ~~reduced by 25 percent and then shall be~~ added to the basic obligation. After the ~~adjusted~~ child care costs are added to the basic obligation, any moneys prepaid by the noncustodial parent for child care costs for the child or children of this action shall be deducted from that noncustodial parent's child support obligation for that child or those children. Child care costs shall not exceed the level required to provide quality care from a licensed source for the children.

(b)(8) Health insurance costs resulting from coverage ordered pursuant to s. 61.13(1)(b), and any noncovered medical, dental, and prescription medication expenses of the child, shall be added to the basic obligation unless these expenses have been ordered to be separately paid on a percentage basis. After the health insurance costs are added to the basic obligation, any moneys prepaid by the noncustodial parent for health-related costs for the child or children of this action shall be deducted from that noncustodial parent's child support obligation for that child or those children.

~~(9) Each parent's percentage share of the child support need shall be determined by dividing each parent's net income by the combined net income.~~

674 ~~(10) Each parent's actual dollar share of the child support~~
675 ~~need shall be determined by multiplying the minimum child support~~
676 ~~need by each parent's percentage share.~~

677 (10)(11)(a) FACTORS TO BE CONSIDERED FOR VARIATION.--The 678 court may adjust the minimum child support award, or either or 679 both parents' share of the minimum child support award, based 680 upon the following considerations:

681 (a)1- Extraordinary medical, psychological, educational, or 682 dental expenses.

683 (b)2- Independent income of the child, not to include
684 moneys received by a child from supplemental security income.

685 (c)3- The payment of support for a parent which regularly
686 has been paid and for which there is a demonstrated need.

687 (d)4- Seasonal variations in one or both parents' incomes
688 or expenses.

689 (e)5- The age of the child, taking into account the greater 690 needs of older children.

691 (f)6- Special needs, such as costs that may be associated 692 with the disability of a child, that have traditionally been met 693 within the family budget even though the fulfilling of those 694 needs will cause the support to exceed the amount proposed in the 695 guidelines schedule.

696 (g)7- Total available assets of the obligee, obligor, and 697 the child.

698 (h)8- The impact of the Internal Revenue Service dependency
699 exemption and waiver of that exemption and the impact of any 700 federal child care tax credit. The court may order the primary
701 residential parent to execute a waiver of the Internal Revenue Service dependency exemption if the noncustodial parent is current in support payments.

(i)9. When application of the child support guidelines requires a person to pay another person more than 55 percent of his or her gross income for a child support obligation for current support resulting from a single support order.

~~(j)10.~~ The particular shared parental arrangement, ~~such as where the child spends a significant amount of time, but less than 40 percent of the overnights, with the noncustodial parent, thereby reducing the financial expenditures incurred by the primary residential parent; or the refusal of the noncustodial parent to become involved in the activities of the child.~~

(k)11. Any other adjustment which is needed to achieve an equitable result which may include, but not be limited to, a reasonable and necessary existing expense or debt. Such expense or debt may include, but is not limited to, a reasonable and necessary expense or debt which the parties jointly incurred during the marriage.

~~(b) Whenever a particular shared parental arrangement provides that each child spend a substantial amount of time with each parent, the court shall adjust any award of child support, as follows:~~

~~1. In accordance with subsections (9) and (10), calculate the amount of support obligation apportioned to the noncustodial parent without including day care and health insurance costs in the calculation and multiply the amount by 1.5.~~

~~2. In accordance with subsections (9) and (10), calculate the amount of support obligation apportioned to the custodial~~

~~parent without including day care and health insurance costs in the calculation and multiply the amount by 1.5.~~

~~3. Calculate the percentage of overnight stays the child spends with each parent.~~

~~4. Multiply the noncustodial parent's support obligation as calculated in subparagraph 1. by the percentage of the custodial parent's overnight stays with the child as calculated in subparagraph 3.~~

~~5. Multiply the custodial parent's support obligation as calculated in subparagraph 2. by the percentage of the noncustodial parent's overnight stays with the child as calculated in subparagraph 3.~~

~~6. The difference between the amounts calculated in subparagraphs 4. and 5. shall be the monetary transfer necessary between the custodial and noncustodial parents for the care of the child, subject to an adjustment for day care and health insurance expenses.~~

~~7. Pursuant to subsections (7) and (8), calculate the net amounts owed by the custodial and noncustodial parents for the expenses incurred for day care and health insurance coverage for the child. Day care shall be calculated without regard to the 25-percent reduction applied by subsection (7).~~

~~8. Adjust the support obligation owed by the custodial or noncustodial parent pursuant to subparagraph 6. by crediting or debiting the amount calculated in subparagraph 7. This amount represents the child support which must be exchanged between the custodial and noncustodial parents.~~

~~9. The court may deviate from the child support amount calculated pursuant to subparagraph 8. based upon the~~

custodial parent's low income and ability to maintain the basic necessities of the home for the child, the likelihood that the noncustodial parent will actually exercise the visitation granted by the court, and whether all of the children are exercising the same shared parental arrangement.~~

~~10. For purposes of adjusting any award of child support under this paragraph, "substantial amount of time" means that the noncustodial parent exercises visitation at least 40 percent of the overnights of the year.~~

(11) SHARED PARENTING AND SPLIT PARENTING ARRANGEMENTS.--

(a) In an intact family, the children reside in one household with both parents and no visitation is needed. The minimum child support amounts in the child support guidelines schedule provided in subsection (6) represent spending on children by intact families. Therefore, the child support amounts in the guidelines schedule are appropriate only if the child resides in the custodial parent's household 100 percent of the time. In shared parenting situations, each parent incurs expenses for the child while the child is with that parent. To accommodate shared parenting situations, each parent's income share of the minimum child support award may be adjusted based on expenses assumed to be duplicated or shifted and the amount of time spent with the child. Although these guidelines are designed to accommodate shared parenting arrangements when appropriate, shared parenting adjustments or awards are not presumptive but are subject to the discretion of the court in accordance with the factors listed in subsection (10).

(b) Unless the parties otherwise agree, the final child support order shall not be based on a calculated shared parenting award if:

1. The monthly net income of the custodial parent plus the shared parenting child support award is less than two times the then-current poverty guidelines prescribed by the United States Department of Health and Human Services for the size of the household; or

2. In any case, the court finds that the net income of the custodial parent remaining after the calculation of the shared parenting award is not sufficient to maintain the household for the child.

(c) A shared parenting calculation shall be determined according to the following formula:

1. The child support payment to be made equals (the basic support obligation) multiplied by (1 plus Parent A's percentage of the shared parenting time) multiplied by [(Parent A's share of the combined monthly net income) minus (Parent A's percentage of the shared parenting time)].

2. If the two parents do not have an equal amount of parenting time, Parent A is the parent with the smaller percentage of time.

3. If the two parents have an equal amount of parenting time, Parent A is the parent with the larger income.

(d)-(e) A noncustodial parent's failure to regularly exercise court-ordered or agreed visitation not caused by the custodial parent which resulted in the adjustment of the amount of child support as provided in subsection (12) pursuant to subparagraph
~~(a)10. or paragraph (b)~~ shall be deemed a substantial change of circumstances for purposes of modifying the child support award.

A modification pursuant to this paragraph shall be retroactive to the date the noncustodial parent first failed to regularly exercise court-ordered or agreed visitation.

(e) A split parenting arrangement exists when there is more than one child in common and each parent provides primary residential care for at least one of the children. In cases involving split parenting arrangements, the court shall calculate and issue a separate child support order for each parent based on the number of children in that parent's custody, and the difference between the two orders is the amount to be paid by the parent with the higher child support order amount.

(12) DETERMINATION OF CHILD SUPPORT ORDER AMOUNT.--

(a) Calculations shall be made to determine the amount of child support contained in the support order, as follows:

1. Gross income shall be determined on a monthly basis for each parent as provided in subsection (4).

2. Net income for each parent shall be determined by subtracting allowable deductions from gross income as provided in subsection (5).

3. Net income for each parent shall be added together for a combined net income.

4. The combined net income shall be applied to the child support guidelines schedule as provided in subsection (6) to determine the minimum child support amount.

5. Each parent's percentage share of the minimum child support amount shall be determined by dividing each parent's net income by the combined net income.

844 6. Each parent's actual dollar share of the minimum child
845 support amount shall be determined by multiplying the minimum
846 child support amount by each parent's percentage share.

847 7. Any adjustment as a result of a particular shared 848 parenting arrangement as provided in subsection (11) shall be 849 factored in.

850 8. Any child care costs related to employment or education
851 calculated pursuant to subsection (9) shall be added to the basic 852 child support obligation.

853 9. Any costs related to health insurance premiums for the 854 child determined pursuant to subsection (9) shall be added to the 855 basic child support obligation.

856 10. The amount of the child support order is determined by 857 adding the basic child support obligation, any offset for a
858 particular parenting time arrangement, net child care costs
859 related to employment or education, and health insurance costs
860 for the child.

861 (b) Calculations shall be rounded to the nearest one-tenth
862 of a percent for percentages and to the nearest dollar in all 863 instances. When the parents' combined net income falls halfway or 864 more than halfway between the two income figures on the schedule, 865 the higher figure shall be used. When the parents' combined net 866 income falls less than halfway between two income figures, the 867 lower figure shall be used.

868 (13) MODIFICATION OF EXISTING ORDERS.--

869 (a) The guidelines schedule provided in subsection (6) may 870 provide the basis for proving a substantial change in 871 circumstances upon which a modification of an existing order may 872 be granted. However, the difference between the existing monthly obligation and the amount provided for under the guidelines schedule shall be at least 15 percent or $50, whichever amount is greater, before the court may find that the guidelines schedule provides a substantial change in circumstances.

(b) For each child support order reviewed by the department as required by s. 409.2564(11), if the amount of the child support award under the order differs by at least 10 percent but not less than $25 from the amount that would be awarded under this section, the department shall seek to have the order modified and any modification shall be made without a requirement for proof or showing of a change in circumstances.

(14) FINANCIAL AFFIDAVIT.--Every petition for child support or for modification of child support shall be accompanied by an affidavit which shows the party's income, allowable deductions, and net income computed in accordance with this section. The affidavit shall be served at the same time that the petition is served. The respondent, whether or not a stipulation is entered, shall make an affidavit which shows the party's income, allowable deductions, and net income computed in accordance with this section. The respondent shall include his or her affidavit with the answer to the petition or as soon thereafter as is practicable, but in any case at least 72 hours prior to any hearing on the finances of either party.

~~(15)-(12)~~ EXISTENCE OF SUBSEQUENT CHILDREN.--

(a) A parent with a support obligation may have other children living with him or her who were born or adopted after the support obligation arose. If such subsequent children exist, the court, when considering an upward modification of an existing award, may disregard the income from secondary employment obtained in addition to the parent's primary employment if the court determines that the employment was obtained primarily to support the subsequent children.

PCB FFF 06-02

(b) Except as provided in paragraph (a), the existence of such subsequent children should not as a general rule be considered by the court as a basis for disregarding the amount provided in the guidelines schedule. The parent with a support obligation for subsequent children may raise the existence of such subsequent children as a justification for deviation from the guidelines schedule. However, if the existence of such subsequent children is raised, the income of the other parent of the subsequent children shall be considered by the court in determining whether or not there is a basis for deviation from the guideline amount.

(c) The issue of subsequent children under paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) may only be raised in a proceeding for an upward modification of an existing award and may not be applied to justify a decrease in an existing award.

~~(13) If the recurring income is not sufficient to meet the needs of the child, the court may order child support to be paid from nonrecurring income or assets.~~

~~(16)~~ ~~(15)~~ COOPERATION RELATED TO PUBLIC ASSISTANCE.--For purposes of establishing an obligation for support in accordance with this section, if a person who is receiving public assistance is found to be noncooperative as defined in s. 409.2572, the IV-D agency is authorized to submit to the court an affidavit attesting to the income of the custodial parent based upon information available to the IV-D agency.

930 ~~(17)~~(16) REVIEW OF GUIDELINES.--The child support
931 guidelines shall be reviewed and revised, if necessary, at least 932 once every 4 years by a committee to be appointed by the Chief
933 Justice of the Supreme Court to ensure that the support amounts 934 are appropriate for child support awards. The Supreme Court shall 935 approve the child support guidelines upon revision by the 936 committee for use in this state and shall publish the guidelines

940 ~~(18)~~(17) RETROACTIVE CHILD SUPPORT.--In an initial 941 determination of child support, whether in a paternity action, 942 dissolution of marriage action, or petition for support during 943 the marriage, the court has discretion to award child support
944 retroactive to the date when the parents did not reside together 945 in the same household with the child, not to exceed a period of 946 24 months preceding the filing of the petition, regardless of 947 whether that date precedes the filing of the petition. In 948 determining the retroactive award in such cases, the court shall 949 consider the following:

950 (a) The court shall apply the guidelines schedule in effect
951 at the time of the hearing subject to the obligor's demonstration
952 of his or her actual income, as defined by subsection (4) ~~(2)~~, 953 during the retroactive period. Failure of the obligor to so
954 demonstrate shall result in the court using the obligor's income 955 at the time of the hearing in computing child support for the 956 retroactive period.

(b) All actual payments made by the noncustodial parent to the custodial parent or the child or third parties for the benefit of the child throughout the proposed retroactive period.

(c) The court should consider an installment payment plan for the payment of retroactive child support.

Section 4. Subsection (10) of section 409.2564, Florida Statutes, is amended to read:

409.2564 Actions for support.--

(10) For the purposes of denial, revocation, or limitation of an individual's United States passport, consistent with 42 U.S.C. s. 652(k)(1), the Title IV-D agency shall have procedures to certify to the Secretary of the United States Department of Health and Human Services, in the format and accompanied by such supporting documentation as the secretary may require, a determination that an individual owes arrearages of support in an amount exceeding $2,500 ~~$5,000~~. Said procedures shall provide that the individual be given notice of the determination and of the consequence thereof and that the individual shall be given an opportunity to contest the accuracy of the determination.

REVIEW OF FLORIDA'S CHILD SUPPORT GUIDELINES

SUMMARY

During the 1970s and 1980s, federal law and regulations became increasingly focused on collecting unpaid child support, while remaining relatively silent on determining the amount of a child support obligation. Historically, the amount of a child support award was determined solely at the discretion of a trier of fact. Anecdotal reports indicated that allowing judges or other decisionmakers to subjectively determine the amount of child support obligations routinely resulted in judgments that were not adequate to provide for the needs of children and judgments that were considerably different in cases with similar circumstances.

In 1984, Congress recognized potential value in requiring states to implement guidelines to be used in the determination of the amount of the child support obligation. The federal Child Support Amendments of 1984 required states to establish non-binding child support guidelines either by law, or judicial or administrative action no later than October 1, 1987.¹ The Family Support Act of 1988 made state child support guidelines presumptive and required states to review their child support guidelines at least once every four years in order to ensure that their application results in child support award amounts that are appropriate. As a part of the review process, states must analyze case data related to the application of, and deviations from, the guidelines, and they must also consider economic data related to the cost of raising children.² With the exception of these two requirements, states have broad discretion and latitude in conducting guideline reviews.

The Florida House of Representatives has traditionally taken the lead in completing the reviews to meet the federal mandate. In spite of timely guideline reviews and some statutory changes, the Florida Legislature has not adjusted the guidelines schedule since 1993. Since the underlying data for the current schedule enacted in 1993 is the 1972-1973 Consumer Expenditure Survey, the schedule is considerably out of date. In addition, other provisions of the guidelines may no longer adequately reflect the needs and circumstances of Florida families.

BACKGROUND

Federal Law Related to Child Support Guidelines Review

Almost 10 years after the creation of the Child Support Enforcement Program in 1975, a report issued by the Senate Finance Committee noted that while federal law required states to have effective programs for establishing paternity, securing court orders for child support, and enforcing those orders, the adequacy or reasonableness of the amount of support ordered was left entirely to the discretion of the state and its courts. The child support enforcement program had unquestionably increased the number of support orders established and money collected. However, in many cases the amount of support ordered was lower than what was necessary to meet the needs of the child, while taking into consideration the ability of the absent parent to pay. In other cases awards were unrealistically high. Available data showed that in the limited number of states where guidelines were being voluntarily used, award levels tended to be higher than in those states where the amount of the award remained entirely discretionary with each judge.

As a result of information gathered by the Finance Committee, the Child Support Amendments of 1984 required states to adopt non-binding child support guidelines. The exact nature of the guidelines was to be determined by each state and were to be established by law or by a judicial conference or other mechanism considered appropriate in that state.³ The Family Support Act of 1988 subsequently required those guidelines to be presumptive rather than advisory.⁴ Almost all states, including Florida, complied with this mandate by the congressional deadline of October 13, 1989. In requiring the adoption and use of presumptive guidelines, the federal government had four primary objectives:

- to enhance the adequacy of child support orders;
- to improve the equity of orders by assuring more comparable treatment for cases with similar circumstances;
- to increase compliance as a result of the perceived fairness of child support awards; and
- to improve the efficiency of adjudicating child support orders.

In order to help ensure that state child support guidelines led to the determination of adequate awards, the Family Support Act also required states to review, and revise, if appropriate, their guidelines at least once every four years. The final implementing regulations related to the review process contained the following requirements:

As part of the review of a State's guidelines ... a State must consider economic data on the cost of raising children and analyze case data, gathered through sampling or other methods, on the application of, and deviations from, the guidelines. The analysis of the data must be used in the State's review of the guidelines to ensure that deviations from the guidelines are limited.⁵

³ See Senate Report No. 98-387, 1984, p. 2436.

⁴ The Family Support Act was enacted to restructure the basic program of public assistance for families through measures that emphasized the importance of parental responsibility, including the enforcement of child support, as well as expanded opportunities for education and training.

Florida Child Support Guidelines Reviews

In keeping with the requirements of the federal Child Support Enforcement Amendments of 1984, Florida adopted child support guidelines for the first time during the 1987 legislative session and the guidelines were given advisory status as permitted at that time by federal law.⁶ The child support guidelines adopted by the 1987 Legislature were patterned after those already in use in New Jersey which were based on the Income Shares Model developed by Dr. Robert Williams.⁷ The fundamental principle of the model is the premise that both parents have a shared duty to support their children based on their respective contribution to the combined family income. The model also assumes that a child should receive the same proportion of parental income that he or she would have received if the parents lived together in an intact household.⁸

In response to the requirements of the Family Support Act of 1988, Florida's guidelines became presumptive in 1989,⁹ and the state reviews can be summarized as follows:

● The 1992-1993 Review – The House Committee on Judiciary conducted the first guidelines review as an interim project in 1992 and issued a report in December 1992. To satisfy the economic data requirement of the guidelines review, the Legislature contracted with Policy Studies, Inc. of Denver, Colorado, to update the Florida child support guidelines schedule. Policy Studies, Inc., provided the Florida Legislature with proposed support schedules and a table of support proportions upon which the schedules were built.¹⁰ The new schedules were based on the Espenshade estimates¹¹ and adjusted for changes in the Consumer Price Index and the built-in self support reserve. In addition, the committee surveyed Florida case law and requested input from interested parties on the committee's child support mailing list.

As a result of this review process, the Florida Legislature enacted legislation that incorporated numerous changes to the child support guidelines. The child support guidelines schedule, while still using the Espenshade estimates based on the 1972-73 Consumer Expenditure Survey, was updated to reflect changes in the Consumer Price Index through 1992. The legislation also contained provisions to remedy problems

⁷ See Williams, R. G. (1987). Development of guidelines for child support orders, Advisory Panel recommendations and final report. Washington, D.C.: U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Office of Child Support Enforcement.

⁸ The schedule contained in the guidelines was based on economic estimates of child rearing expenditures derived by Thomas Espenshade by using national data on household expenditures from the 1972-1973 Consumer Expenditure Survey. A formula was established which provided that the adjusted net or gross income of both parents was to be combined and the support amount determined by reference to a table or schedule of support amounts. Each parent was then to be assessed his or her pro rata share of the support obligation. See Espenshade, T. J. (1984). Investing in Children: New Estimates of Parental Expenditures. perceived as a result of reviewing applicable case law between 1989 and 1992, and addressed concerns raised by a variety of stakeholders in the child support process.¹²

● The 1996-1997 Review – The House Committee on Judiciary undertook the second child support guidelines review as an interim project in 1996. The Legislature again contracted with Policy Studies, Inc., to develop a new economic table for the Florida child support guidelines. The schedule that was proposed was developed using the economic findings of David Betson and using a methodology similar to the one used in the development of the guidelines that were in use at the time.¹³ In addition, committee staff requested the assistance of the Department of Revenue in compiling case data on the application of guidelines and the amount, direction, and extent of deviations from guidelines. Circuit court judges, hearing officers and special masters hearing child support cases were also surveyed. The Committee on Family Law and Children issued a final report in March 1997, which stated:

Since the last review in 1993, Florida courts have rendered numerous decisions discussing the application of the guidelines. Many issues have been raised by these decisions. These issues include, among others, application of the guidelines when there are multiple families; application of the guidelines when there is substantial secondary parenting; and application of the guidelines when primary residence is split ... Many issues which have emerged from this review should be addressed by the Legislature. These concerns affect the well being of Florida's children and are a significant concern to the affected parties.¹⁴

During the 1997 legislative session a number of substantive changes were made to the support guidelines, but they did not include recommendations resulting from the 1996-1997 guidelines review. The legislation did, however, in preparation for the next review, contain a provision requiring the Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability (OPPAGA) to study and analyze case data, gathered through a statistically valid random sample of established child support enforcement orders on the application of, and deviations from, the existing child support guidelines.¹⁵

The case data analysis that was provided for in 1997 legislation was completed by OPPAGA. The final report was released in March 1998 and contained a number of findings and recommendations.¹⁶ The House Committee on Family Law and Children introduced a Proposed Committee Bill (PCB) during the 1998 session that would have implemented the updated child support guidelines schedule prepared for Florida by Policy Studies, Inc., during the 1996-1997 review process. The bill died in committee.¹⁷

● The 2000-2001 Review – As required by state law, OPPAGA issued a follow up to their 1998 report in December 2000. The report provided information related to actions taken relevant to the findings and recommendations of the 1998 report. It also outlined information regarding the need to update the child support guidelines schedule and compared options available for revising the economic data on which the schedule is based.

The House Committee on Family Law and Children introduced legislation during the 2000 legislative session that contained a number of proposed changes to the child support guidelines that were based on findings from the case data analyses done by OPPAGA, the updated schedules proposed by Policy Studies, Inc., in 1997, input from stakeholders, and the results of surveys sent to circuit court judges, hearing officers, and special masters. The bill died in committee and the guidelines schedule remained unchanged.¹⁸

● The 2004-2006 Review – In preparation for the current review, the Legislature allocated funds for an economic review of the state's child support guidelines.¹⁹ In February 2003, the Legislature contracted with the Department of Economics at Florida State University. The analysis undertaken by the researchers consisted of three tasks:

- To update the existing Florida schedule of child support obligations based on the most recent data available on expenditures on children;
- To review three special issues relating to child support guidelines and to make recommendations for changes in Florida's treatment of these issues. The three issues are the treatment of low-income parents, provisions for visitation and alternative custody arrangements, and the treatment of prior and subsequent children; and
- To review alternative models for the development of child support guidelines and possibly recommend a different model for use in Florida.²⁰

In addition, two issues that were not a part of the original scope of work but that came up during the course of the project were addressed: the treatment in the guidelines of the tax benefits associated with children, and the treatment of child care related expenses.

The final report was delivered to the Legislature in March 2004 and presentations were made on findings and recommendations to the Future of Florida's Families Committee during the 2004 and 2005 legislative sessions. Work continued during the interims in preparation for the development of proposed legislation for possible introduction during the 2006 legislative session.

FINDINGS

Florida continues to have one of the highest divorce rates in the country, with over half of the state's marriages ending in divorce. In addition, it has been estimated that at least half of the state's children will witness the breakup of a parent's marriage and live at least part of their childhood in a single-parent family. Of these, close to half will also see the breakup of a parent's second marriage.²¹ Given the number of children whose parents are divorced, along with those children whose parents never married, it follows that the child support guidelines affect many of the state's children and families.²²

The development of child support guidelines that were fair was not perceived as an easy task in the 1980s. At that time, there were several competing theories on the most appropriate way to determine the amount of child support obligations. All states were dealing with the reality that any set of guidelines must adequately contend with public policy issues such as how to calculate parental income; how to treat obligations to subsequent families; how to treat income from second spouses; whether to consider actual earnings or earning capacity; how to treat child care costs incurred by a working custodial parent; how to handle visitation time and expenses; how to handle cost of living differences within a state; and how to best apply guidelines at the upper and lower ends of the income scale.

Almost 20 years have elapsed since Florida first implemented child support guidelines. Economic conditions are different, newer guideline models have emerged, the structure and needs of families have changed, and yet it appears current provisions in the Florida guidelines still have not adequately addressed a number of these issues.

Updating Florida's Child Support Guidelines Schedule

Florida's current schedule of child support guidelines is based on the income shares model. The income shares model determines the amount of child support obligations from estimated average expenditures on children in an intact family as a function of the combined income of the parents. The model was developed by Robert Williams from an analysis of expenditures on children by Thomas Espenshade.²³ Espenshade based his analysis on Ernst Engel's approach²⁴ to comparing living standards among families.

If the Legislature decides to retain the income shares model, the update of the Florida schedule proposed by Florida State University adheres closely to the methodology of the current schedule, except that it incorporates data from the 1999-2001 Consumer ²¹ U.S. Census Bureau, National Center for Health Statistics, and Americans for Divorce Reform.

²² The child support guidelines are required to be used for the determination of all child support obligations, whether initial awards or subsequent modifications, and whether the parents of a child are separating, divorcing, or have never married.

²³ See Espenshade, T. J. (1973). The Cost of Children in Urban United States. Westport, Connecticut: Greenwood Press and Espenshade, T. J. (1984). Investing in Children: New Estimates of Parental Expenditures. Washington, D.C.: The Urban Institute Press.

²⁴ The underlying assumption of the Engel approach is that families of a different size that spend equal proportions of their incomes on food are equally well-off. The Engel approach assumes that as total spending increases, the budget share or percent devoted to food should decrease, freeing up expenditures for other goods, and that as family size increases, the food share of the budget should also increase.

Expenditure Survey and applies the 2002 federal poverty guideline for a single-person household. In the proposed schedule, the basic support obligations are lower at most income levels than those in the current schedule, with differences being relatively small except at the higher income levels. However, the amounts in the proposed guidelines are greater than those in the existing guidelines for families at moderately low income levels with multiple children.

Using a representative sample of Florida child support cases, it was determined that for approximately 60% of the IV-D cases²⁵ in the sample the average child support payment changes very little from the current schedule. Only for the 20% of cases in the IV-D sample with the highest incomes would the average payment change substantially. Similarly, in 40% of the private cases there is almost no change in the average child support payment. For the top 20% the average payment decreases substantially, and the average payment for the middle 40% decreases slightly. Applying the proposed schedule of basic child support obligations to the actual distribution of the child support cases in Florida indicates that the effect of the proposed schedule would be minimal for most cases. Only the top 20% of cases ranked by income would see a significant change in the amount of child support payments. In those cases, payments would decrease substantially.²⁶

Low-Income Parents

Child support obligations that are derived from the income shares methodology typically include an adjustment for low-income parents to ensure that parents owing child support are not living in poverty due to the obligation to provide support. The low-income adjustment in Florida's current guidelines applies to only about one percent of cases and is, therefore, ineffective at preventing or mitigating poverty among low-income parents. This ineffectiveness is primarily a result of four features of the current guidelines:

- The use of combined income of both parents with the single person poverty threshold;
- The application of the low-income provisions to the basic obligation rather than to the total obligation;
- The failure to update the child support schedule on a regular basis to reflect increases in the poverty guideline; and
- The imputation of income.²⁷

In addition, Florida's current schedule of child support obligations is regressive,²⁸ which penalizes noncustodial parents who earn additional income and, therefore, serves as a disincentive to work. Imposing a very high marginal rate on additional earnings also ²⁵ Families who either receive public assistance payments or request state assistance from the Department of Revenue with collecting and enforcing child support orders are classified as Title IV-D cases. Families who use private attorneys in child support cases and do not receive public assistance or request state assistance are referred to as private cases.

²⁶ See Updating Florida's Schedule of Child Support Obligations, Deliverable 1, Department of Economics, Florida State University, August 29, 2003.

²⁷ See Updating Florida's Schedule of Child Support Obligations, Deliverable 2, Department of Economics, Florida State University, October 31, 2003.

²⁸ The child support payment as a percentage of income is higher for parents with low incomes than it is for parents with higher incomes. As a percent of income, the child support payment gets smaller as income gets larger.

discourages compliance. In fact, the compliance rate among low-income noncustodial parents is very low, which in turn presents a barrier to the involvement of the noncustodial parent with the children.²⁹

Visitation and Custody

Florida law currently provides that in shared parenting arrangements where a child spends less than 40 percent of overnights per year with the noncustodial parent, the court may use that arrangement as grounds for an adjustment in the amount of the child support obligation. A shared parenting arrangement where the number of overnights spent with the noncustodial parent exceeds 40 percent requires the court to adjust the noncustodial parent's support obligation to reflect the additional costs of maintaining two households for the child.³⁰

Failure to provide any adjustment where time spent with the noncustodial parent does not equal or exceed 40 percent may act as a disincentive for regular visitation with the noncustodial parent. Further, setting a threshold results in very large changes in the noncustodial parent's child support obligation in response to very small changes in the amount of visitation. For this reason, the existence of a threshold can be a source of excessive dispute and litigation between parents.

Currently, Florida's child support guidelines are silent regarding split custody arrangements.³¹ As a result, determination of the amount of the basic support obligation in such cases is left to the discretion of the courts without any statutory guidance on dealing with this type of living arrangement. This gives rise to disparate treatment of these cases in different judicial districts, and can also be a source of dispute and litigation over living arrangements. Failure to provide explicitly for split custody may discourage parents from adopting this arrangement even when it is in the best interest of the child.³²

Prior and Subsequent Children

Florida's current child support guidelines permit a deduction from the noncustodial parent's net income for pre-existing child support orders if the support is actually paid. If such a deduction were not allowed, prior children would be unaffected and existing children would be only marginally impacted, but the child support obligation of the noncustodial parent would increase significantly. An alternative approach would be to prorate the child support obligation among all children, prior and existing. Prorating the obligation would have a significant adverse affect on prior children without greatly improving the status of existing children. Neither of the alternatives appears to be clearly superior to the current policy.³³

²⁹ See Updating Florida's Schedule of Child Support Obligations, Deliverable 2, Department of Economics, Florida State University, October 31, 2003.

³⁰ See §61.30(1), Florida Statutes.

³¹ Split custody occurs when parents have two or more children and each parent has residential custody of one or more of the children.

Alternative Child Support Guidelines Models

The literature related to child support guidelines typically discusses six different models that can be used to determine the amount of child support obligations. Four of those models are currently being used by states, and the remaining two have not been adopted by any state.

When child support payments calculated using Florida's current schedule are compared with those determined by using four of the alternative models—the Melson formula, the hybrid model, the American Law Institute (ALI) formula, and the cost shares model – it appears that any of the models can produce child support awards that are both relatively high or low and that the choice of a model is less important than the specific provisions of the child support guidelines and the specific numbers or percentages used in the schedule. Similar results can be obtained from any model depending on the specific provisions of the guidelines as a whole.

While theoretically the income shares model produces an award that is reflective of the income of both parents, the actual child support payment is not very responsive to variations in the custodial parent's income. The alternative models often generate payment amounts that are more responsive to the custodial parent's income than are the payments generated by the income shares model. This limited degree of responsiveness inherent in the income shares model is accompanied by significant additional complexity and lack of transparency in the determination of child support payments. Including the custodial parent's income in the calculation of the child support payment complicates the determination of child support and creates odd anomalies and problems especially in the treatment of low-income parents. If it is important to make the noncustodial parent's payment dependent on the custodial parent's income, then the alternative models all provide greater responsiveness than the income shares model.³⁴

Issues Warranting Further Consideration

Finally, input from numerous stakeholders in the child support process, including, but not limited to, custodial and non-custodial parents, members of the judiciary, representatives from the Family Law Section of the Florida Bar, the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers, the former Commission on Responsible Fatherhood, the Commission on Marriage and Family Support Initiatives, the Office of the State Courts Administrator, Florida Legal Services, the Supreme Court Steering Committee on Families and Children in the Court, the Family Section of the Florida Conference of Circuit Judges, Visions of Manhood, and the Department of Revenue, have yielded the following issues that may or not need to be included in a review of the child support guidelines:

- The current statutes contain no basic information on the federal requirements, purposes, and the economic principles and assumptions that are either built in to or otherwise used in the determination of a child support award;

³⁴ Updating Florida's Schedule of Child Support Obligations, Final Report to the Florida Legislature, Department of Economics, Florida State University, March 5, 2004.

- There is no clear explanation of the meaning of, or definition of, the term “rebuttable presumption” used in s. 61.30, Florida Statutes;
- There is no explanation of child care costs that includes clarifying information about the use of federal child care tax credit and the limitations on its usage;
- The current statutes contain no explanation of the treatment of health insurance premiums, unreimbursed health care costs, and extraordinary medical costs. There is no indication that the guideline schedule includes $250 per year per child of unreimbursed expenses related to health care;
- Florida law currently results in child support being terminated in some cases while a child is still in high school;
- The statutes contain no resolution of the “race to the courthouse” issue;
- There has been no recent discussion as to whether the statutes are the best placement for child support guidelines; and
- There is no statutory guidance related to the support guidelines review mandated by the federal government.

Amendment No. 3a

1. Aftercare support services are available to assist young adults who were formerly in foster care in their efforts to continue to develop the skills and abilities necessary for independent living. The aftercare support services available include, but are not limited to, the following:

- a. Mentoring and tutoring.
- b. Mental health services and substance abuse counseling.
- c. Life skills classes, including credit management and preventive health activities.
- d. Parenting classes.
- e. Job and career skills training.
- f. Counselor consultations.
- g. Temporary financial assistance.
- h. Financial literacy skills.

The specific services to be provided under this subparagraph shall be determined by an aftercare services assessment and may be provided by the department or through referrals in the community.

2. Temporary assistance provided to prevent homelessness shall be provided as expeditiously as possible and within the limitations defined by the department.

3.2. A young adult who has reached 18 years of age but is not yet 23 years of age who leaves foster care at 18 years of age but who requests services prior to reaching 23 years of age is eligible for such services.

(d) 1. Payment of aftercare, scholarship, or transitional support funds.--Payment of aftercare, scholarship, or transitional support funds shall be made directly to the recipient unless the recipient requests in writing to the community-based care lead agency, or the department, that the payments or a portion of the payments be made directly on the recipient's behalf in order to secure services such as housing, counseling, education, or employment training as part of the young adult's own efforts to achieve self-sufficiency.

2. After the completion of aftercare support services that satisfy the requirements of sub-subparagraph (a)1.h., payment of awards under the Road-to-Independence Program shall be made by direct deposit to the recipient, unless the recipient requests in writing to the community-based care lead agency or the department that:

(I) The payments be made directly to the recipient by check or warrant;

(II) The payments or a portion of the payments be made directly on the recipient's behalf to institutions the recipient is attending to maintain eligibility under this section; or

(III) The payments be made on a two-party check to a business or landlord for a legitimate expense, whether reimbursed or not. A legitimate expense for the purposes of this sub-sub-subparagraph shall include auto repair or maintenance; educational, job, or training expenses; and costs incurred, except legal costs, fines, or penalties, when applying for or executing a rental agreement for the purposes of securing a home or residence.

3. The community-based care lead agency may purchase housing, transportation, or employment services to ensure the availability and affordability of specific transitional services thereby allowing an eligible young adult to utilize these services in lieu of receiving a direct payment. Prior to purchasing such services, the community-based care lead agency must have a plan approved by the department describing the services to be purchased, the rationale for purchasing the

300 services, and a specific range of expenses for each service that 301 is less than the cost of purchasing the service by an individual 302 young adult. The plan must include a description of the 303 transition of a young adult using these services into 304 independence and a timeframe for achievement of independence. An 305 eligible young adult who can demonstrate an ability to obtain 306 these services independently and prefers a direct payment shall 307 receive such payment. The plan must be reviewed annually and 308 evaluated for cost-efficiency and for effectiveness in assisting 309 young adults in achieving independence, preventing homelessness
310 among young adults, and enabling young adults to earn a livable
311 wage in a permanent employment situation.

312 4. The young adult who resides with a foster family may not 313 be included as a child in calculating any licensing restriction
314 on the number of children in the foster home.

315 (7) INDEPENDENT LIVING SERVICES ADVISORY COUNCIL.--The 316 Secretary of Children and Family Services shall establish the 317 Independent Living Services Advisory Council for the purpose of 318 reviewing and making recommendations concerning the
319 implementation and operation of the independent living 320 transition services. This advisory council shall continue to 321 function as specified in this subsection until the Legislature
322 determines that the advisory council can no longer provide a 323 valuable contribution to the department's efforts to achieve the 324 goals of the independent living transition services.

325 (a) Specifically, the advisory council shall assess the
326 implementation and operation of the system of independent living
327 transition services and advise the department on actions that
328 would improve the ability of the independent living transition
329 services to meet the established goals. The advisory council
330 shall keep the department informed of problems being experienced

331 with the services, barriers to the effective and efficient
332 integration of services and support across systems, and 333 successes that the system of independent living transition
334 services has achieved. The department shall consider, but is not
